Loon Lake residents plan development forum

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

A forum on plans for the Loon Lake area is planned for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 23.

The unofficially sanctioned meeting will be held at the Antioch Senior Center, 817 Holbeck Dr., in Antioch, across from the Piggly Wiggly.

Meeting organizers are hopeful of a large turnout of Loon Lake residents who will have the opportunity to raise their objections to some of the considered developments.

According to a flier being circulated by meeting organizers, the "quality of living will be jeopardized" if the plans for development of the area become a reality.

Tom Keefe, a resident of Loon Lake, raised questions about the possibility of a 32-acre parcel north of Grass Lake Rd. being annexed into Lake Villa.

Keefe sees the Loon Lake Homeowners Association as being "a bedroom community," with Loon

Lake itself being the third cleanest lake in northern Illinois.

The possible housing development being considered does not bother Keefe.

The proposed 290 self storage units planned for construction along the open area bounded on the north side by Grass Lake Rd. and the east end of W. Loon Lake Blvd. is raising the anger of Keefe and others who are putting the meeting together.

According to information contained in the meeting flier, a possible Bass Pro outlet to be used for boat trials is being considered for an area adjacent to the storage site. A recreational vehicle retail sales store is planned for the intersection of Grass Lake and Villa Rica Rds. The third planned construction is a waterfront sales office for boats and jet skis along Loon Lake's south shore.

If all of these developments come about, problems the group sees include pollution to Loon Lake, inadequate disbursement of storm water run off, traffic related stress and pollution plus reduction of open space.

Quality of life concerns raised in the flier are: transient population all hours of the day and night; increased noise, motion and traffic; glaring security/parking lot lights throughout the night; unknown storage contents; unsightly units not in keeping with a picturesque community; retail stores on Loon Lake disruptive to residential lifestyle; and increased boating traffic on Loon Lake plus increased auto traffic on Villa Rica Rd.

Soft, classical music playing in the background.

Five tables of four or five first and second-graders at each.

Sounds like a typical lower grade school classroom?

Not in this case.

The combined first/second grade class at Antioch Lower Grade School is playing chess.

The students spent six weeks learning the basics including the names of pieces, how to set up the board, how the pieces moved and eventually, playing games.

Their teacher, Patty Devers, explained her idea for teaching her students came from a "Time For Kids" article. The article talks about how a group of fourth through sixth-graders have become involved at the Harlem Chess Center in New York City.

Although the students in Devers' room are younger, the success of the program is still being seen.

When asked about what they learn, the students politely raised their hands responding with a series of answers.

"Problem solving. Moving pieces. Thinking skills. Keeping track of where they (pieces) were.

Concentrating. Planning. How to be a good sport. Taking turns. It's fun."

Some of the responses, admittedly, were already up on a poster in the room. Give the students credit, though, as they came up with most of them without looking.

Playing in teams of two, taking turns, discussions of strategy could be heard in relatively quiet conversation throughout the room. Devers tries to schedule in at least one 20-30 minute session of playing chess per week.

Initially, teams of two were made up with one first-grader and one second-grader paired up. The latest teams were divided more according to the skill level and

Students paint mural for Lindenhurst pool store

A woman lounging in front of a house, shaded by trees. She started out topless, but soon was wearing a swimsuit.

Charlie Miller, 17, a junior at Antioch Community High School, dressed her with a few brushes of paint, as he and four other ACHS art students completed a backyard barbecue theme mural on an interior wall of Aqua Pool and Spa Pros, at 2060 E. Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst. His teacher, Julie Elver, explained how the young artist found the right look for the swimsuit. "Charlie had to look on the Internet for women in swimsuits. He didn't want to do it, but he did it anyway," Miller grinned, as he continued painting.

"The students are doing all the real work," Elver said. "They give me the grunt work to do: cleaning brushes, getting paint, and doing the boring work, like filling in big areas of color."

The teacher pointed to the wall. "This was a blank wall this morning at 8:30 a.m.," she said. At 2:30 p.m. the same day, the wall, 30 ft. wide by 10 ft. tall, was more than half covered with a scene depicting a family enjoying a summer day of sunning, playing ball and barbecuing.

The pool and spa store owner, Mike Dare, a member of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, first called Millburn School, looking for students to paint the mural. "I wanted to liven up the store, and I also wanted to have some kind of community involvement."

Dare was referred to ACHS, where five talented students were

Teen 'VOICES' bring hope for future generations

Cast members bring own experiences to skit messages for PM&L performance

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

"You can't hope if you don't have a future."

"Hope is the future."

One of many thought-provoking comments made during VOICES 2000, a series of skits done by four Antioch teenagers as part of the PM&L Theatre's Readers Theatre, gives young and old alike something to think about.

"Teenagers now are always struggling to fit in," said Mike Anderson, a 19-year-old graduate of Elk Grove High School now living in Antioch and pursuing a career in acting.

"Being yourself doesn't come easy, because you're too busy trying to be what you think everybody wants you to be," Anderson, the oldest of the four cast members, concluded his opening monologue.

The views of Anderson come out in one of the skits where he portrays a character playing a gay person in a school play and is afraid of what other students will say.

"Going through high school was dealing a lot with fitting in," Anderson admitted. "That helped me in finding the motivation to be the character."

"It pulls up feelings when I was going through what he portrayed," Anderson said, noting the feelings of being "scared and excited."

"There's a opportunity in front of you and you don't want to be hesitant to take it," Anderson said.

By acting, Anderson says he is gaining "a stronger sense of self and who you are."

"You don't necessarily have to be outgoing to not worry about what other people think, nor do you have to be an introvert," interjected Bridget Heffernan, a 17-year-old Antioch Community High School (ACHS) senior and freshman at the College of Lake County.

"If you're outgoing, you're more worried about what other people think," Joie Guffrey, a 17-year-old ACHS senior, said. Guffrey pointed out some people who appear very outgoing are actually very private about their inner thoughts and feelings.

Young people have a lot of important things to say. They have intelligence and opinions. I'm not saying they don't need guidance, but they do need freedom to express themselves and make their own mistakes'

Joie Guffrey, 17

"You want to feel what is true to yourself and not walk away from it," Anderson explained. "You don't want to walk away from it feeling there's something more you could do. You don't want to lose an opportunity to do something great just because of people who don't matter to you, what they think."

For Anderson, performing in VOICES is taking a chance for himself. Having never before performed on stage, Anderson saw the audition notice in the newspaper and decided to give it a shot.

Working at Blockbuster, Anderson has signed up for acting classes at Second City in Chicago and in the fall he hopes to get into the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in Pasadena, Calif.

"It seems adults don't listen," said Heffernan, one of the more experienced of the group having participated in ACHS plays, small choir performances, Madrigal Dinner and with Waukegan Community Players. "They think we haven't lived long enough to know what we're talking about."

One of the characters Heffernan portrays is trying to get through to her brother, but he is too high on drugs to know what she is saying. Although it is not the same situation as teens and adults, it is very similar.

"Sometimes teenagers listen more than adults think we do," Heffernan said. The example Heffernan

Chamber offers Lake Villa Township scholarships

The Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce's Board of Directors has agreed to award three $500 scholarships to area students for the year 2000.

The scholarships, named in memory of Paul Yurs, are awarded to graduating seniors who reside in the Lake Villa Township area. Students may obtain applications for the scholarships at their high schools guidance office or by calling the chamber's scholarship chairperson, Dr. Kathleen Hufnagle, Agape Chiropractic, at 356-9696.

"The Chamber business community can take pride in the fact that this is the fourth year in a row that they have provided these awards," explained Chamber President Bob Ringa, Jr. "We recognize the importance of education and are committed to assisting our school leaders in keeping our schools the best in the area."

The scholarships have been awarded to students that have embraced activities demonstrating leadership, conviction, creativity or initiative. He or she might not have the highest test scores or grades, but they have an attitude to succeed and are willing to give of themselves outside of the classroom. Financial matters are not evaluated.

The application deadline is April 3. Applicants will be judged on the following: GPA/Class Rank, involvement in school activities, community service, work experience, and a 500-word essay entitled "Achieving Life's Goals." As each applicant's skills, priorities and interests vary we will judge wholly on the above criteria not giving weight to any particular item.

knowledge of the players by putting a student who played before either at home with family members or, as in the case with several, on the computer, with a student who does not know the game as well. This allows a lot of teaching to take place between the students.

Devers has been pleased with the response of the students. "I've even had some mothers call and ask if I could teach them how to play because their children were asking them to play," Devers said.

One interesting note is, during the students discussion, not once was winning mentioned.

Instead, the focus was on working together and learning how to play the game.

selected by Elver. "I looked at the students' work, and based on that, asked several students to participate in the project. Some declined, because of work conflicts, but five of the most talented students were willing to do it."

The group was limited to five students to avoid the logistical problem of maneuvering in the tight space between the wall and a large swimming pool.

"The mural will be a backdrop for the pool, creating a backyard atmosphere," Dare explained. The store owner paid for the paint and supplies and bought lunch for the young artists. The group will sign the completed mural in a prominent spot. "I want it to be seen from the front window," said Dare.

The design was originally drawn on paper, at a 1:14 scale, then revised by the students, with added suggestions from Dare. Ryan Guenther, a 17-year-old senior, posed for the figure of a chef. The resulting digital photo was used as a model for the painted form. "The home economics teacher's son was the model for the boy playing ball," Elver added.

The project allowed the students to work on drawing and painting skills, as well as various painting techniques. While senior Gina Galinas, 17, worked with a brush, Guenther worked with a sponge, creating realistic looking foliage.

"The students got to experience working on a large scale," their teacher explained. "They learned about working as a team, and about working to please someone else besides themselves, such as a client."

The students, described by Elver as multi-talented, work in more than one discipline. Three out of the five are ceramics artists. With the exception of sophomore Ryan Burgess, 16, who paints "just for fun," the teens all have plans to continue their art studies. Galinas will be majoring in art. Anya Chelminski, 17, senior, plans to major in health science as well as art. Miller is heading for Ringling College in Florida, where he hopes his art major will lead to working on special effects for movies. Guenther dreams of being an animator for Disney, but is considering illustration or computer graphics as well. "The only thing I don't like about painting is the mess," he admitted, as he stroked a shadow along the side of a tree branch.

Chelminski focused on painting lines along the side of a house. "Any, make those lines thicker at the corners," Elver suggested. A short while later, Chelminski offered her brush to Elver. "Would you paint the lines? There are so many. I'm sick of drawing them," Elver smiled as she took up the grunt work, while the students continued their task of creating the feel of a summer day on a winter afternoon.

gave is of an adult telling a teen not to do something, even though the teen has already made the decision to not do it.

"Society looks at teenagers as bad," explained Guffrey, who has performed in a ACHS play and Madrigal Dinner. "If one kid does something wrong, they generalize all as bad."

"People spend too much time focusing on what they (youth) have done wrong rather than what they've done right," Guffrey said.

"Young people have a lot of important things to say," Guffrey emphasized. "They have intelligence and opinions. I'm not saying they don't need guidance, but they do need freedom to express themselves and make their own mistakes. They shouldn't be judged by the mistakes of others."

In one of the skits, Guffrey plays the part of a young girl who fell in love, had sex, and ended up with AIDS. The other person in the skit, Anderson, plays a young man going through the same type of situation.

"It gives the male and female perspective on the same situation," said Barbara Conkrite of Fox Lake, a PM&L veteran who served as director of VOICES.

"Teenagers need to be themselves and completely ignore peer pressure," Guffrey said of advice to her fellow teens. "I'm not saying go out and rebel. I'm saying do things for yourself and not for others because you think that's what they want you to do."

The youngest member of the cast is 13-year-old Jessica Smouse, a eighth grader at Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS). Although the youngest in chronological age, Smouse has been involved for five years with the PM&L Theatre.

Hearing from adults, "When I was your age..." is frustrating to Smouse. "It's not any easier now," she explained. "There's a lot more to deal with now than when they were kids. Some are the same, like drugs and smoking."

"We have more knowledge now, which makes it (the problem) seem bigger," Smouse explained. "Your parents are good to turn to, but they're not always right and not always the ones to turn to."

"The more they (parents) will tell you what they want you to know rather than what's there," Smouse said. "Because you're their kid, they want to protect you and tell you what's wrong instead of everything you should know."

"I'd rather see parents give the information so you could make a choice and decision," Smouse added.

An example Smouse used is the skit in which she portrays a young girl looking to get a part-time job. The girl sees a sign advertising "video work" and thinks it is working at a video store. When interviewing, the girl finds out it is a pornography job.

"There are those kinds of people out there and it is not as safe as it might seem out there," Smouse said.

"Being young is no excuse for not knowing what's going on," Heffernan said.

In talking about the overall experience of working on the performance together, Heffernan observed, "We really have a lot of fun. After the first few rehearsals, we got more comfortable with each other and have become kind of like a family."

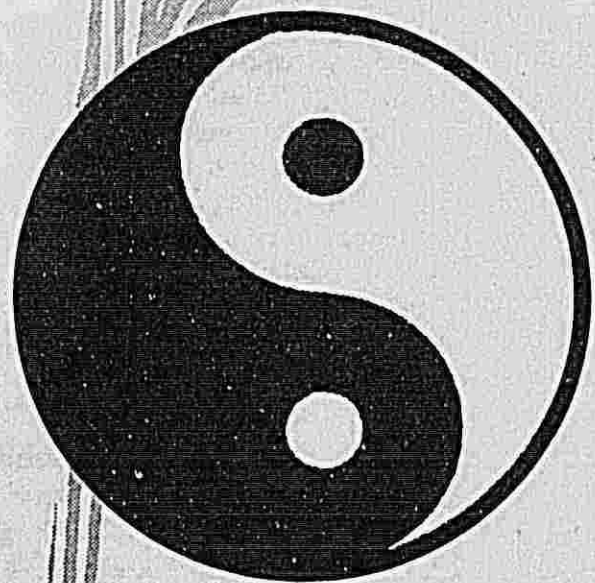

"We want to expand our safety zone and step outside of our person," Heffernan said. "We become comfortable with being outside of our comfort zone and our comfort zone then expands."

Allen was reportedly observed driving a blue Ford Taurus clocked at 48 mph in a 30 mph zone. Allen was found to be driving on a suspended license. Allen was ticketed for speeding and driving with a suspended license. Allen has a court date of 9 a.m. April 12 at Branch III Court in Grayslake.

Elizabeth A. Markasovic, 33, 311 Ida St., Antioch was arrested by Antioch Police at 11:32 a.m. Feb. 25 on outstanding warrants. Markasovic was observed by police walking on Main St. at Ida. Officers were aware of Markasovic's warrants and took her into custody as she was wanted for criminal damage to property and retail theft by the Lake County Sheriff. Markasovic was transported to the Lake County Jail in Waukegan.

LAKE VILLA

Revoked license

Katherine A. Schultz, 37, 286 Anita Terrace, Antioch was arrested by Lake Villa Police at 1:56 p.m. Feb. 26 when she allegedly made a left turn onto Rte. 83 from eastbound Grand Ave. After being stopped, Schultz was found to be driving on a revoked driver's license. Tickets were issued for no turn signal and driving while having a revoked license. Schultz has a court date of 1:30 p.m. April 12 at Branch III Court in Grayslake.

Three arrested

What began as an investigation into a possible robbery turned out being a triple arrest for a drug sale deal gone bad. Brauck A. Springer, 21, 176 East Blueberry Ln., Round Lake Beach was charged by Lake Villa Police with attempted disorderly conduct, unlawful use of weapons (22 caliber starter's pistol), unlawful use of weapons (explosives) and possession of a controlled substance. Lake Villa Police responded to a call about a possible robbery victim at 3:29 p.m. Feb. 17. Springer claimed he had made arrangements with a 16-year-old juvenile "Drew" to purchase some record turn tables. After obtaining the money at a bank, Springer reportedly returned to a church parking lot on McKinley Ave. where the juvenile allegedly jumped Springer after he got out of the car, took the money, and drove off. During police officer's further interview with Springer, the suspect vehicle and subjects were located by Lindenhurst Police at Valley Dr. and Sand Lake Rd. During subsequent interviews with the subjects it was found Springer had allegedly made arrangements to purchase "ecstasy" pills from the two juveniles. One of the juveniles was found to have marijuana on him. The juvenile's father was at the scene and followed police to Lake Villa Police Station where the juveniles were processed. The juveniles were referred to the Lake County Juvenile Division with charges of theft under $250. During a search of Springer and his belongings, the starter's pistol and materials which could be used for explosives were found.

Suspended license

Louise J. Battinus, 30, 2111 N. Butrick, Waukegan was stopped by Lake Villa Police at 8:25 p.m. Feb. 13 while northbound on Rte. 83 at Apollo Ct. Battinus reportedly had no license plate light on her vehicle. Battinus told the officer she did not have her driver's license and was not sure if it was valid. After checking through the computer, Battinus' license came up suspended. Battinus was ticketed for driving while having a suspended license with a court date of 3 p.m. March 8 at Branch III Court in Grayslake.

Michelle Lee Lawrence, 24, 419 Donlin Dr., #103, Antioch was stopped by Lake Villa Police at 4:50 p.m. Feb. 19 when her 2000 Pontiac Grand Prix was observed northbound on Rte. 83, north of the Soo Line bridge, reportedly clocked at 64 mph in a 45 mph zone. During the subsequent computer check, Lawrence was found to have a suspended driver's license and was issued tickets for speeding and driving on a suspended license.

DUI

Jason R. Richardson, 20, 725 Thompson Ave., Winthrop Harbor, was stopped by Lake Villa Police when his 1990 Chevy Corsica was observed while southbound on Rte. 83 from Grand Ave. Richardson reportedly swerved into the oncoming lane twice, immediately jerking back into the lane, then drove off the road into a culvert full of snow and ice. When the officer approached the driver, Richardson, he allegedly smelled a strong odor of alcohol. It took several minutes for Richardson to find his driver's license and insurance card. The insurance card was not for the vehicle Richardson was driving. The officer had Richardson attempt the field sobriety tests, which he allegedly failed. Richardson was found to have an alcohol level of .193. Richardson was charged with DUI (.193), DUI-zero tolerance, driving without insurance and improper lane usage.

Drag racing

Bryant R. Kupsche, 17, 624 Aspen Ct., Antioch and Richard S. Ward, 17, 39766 Circle Ave., Antioch were each charged by Lake Villa Police after an incident at 9:35 p.m. Feb. 20. According to the report, the two vehicles which each was driving were observed side by side northbound on Rte. 83 near Shea's Iron Works traveling at high rates of speed. A 1997 Ford Mustang driven by Kupsche was stopped by police, while the second vehicle continued. Kupsche was ticketed for speeding 26 mph over the posted limit, drag racing and having no front registration plate. During the officer's investigation, the identity of the second driver was obtained and contacted by phone. Subsequently, Ward turned himself into Lake Villa Police at the station and was charged with speeding 26 mph over the speed limit, drag racing, not having his driver's license on his person, failure to transfer a title and improper use of a registration. Kupsche and Ward each have court dates of 3 p.m. March 8 at Branch III Court in Grayslake.

Lake Villa boy sends threatening e-mail

By MICHELLE HABRYCH
Staff Reporter

A 13-year-old male was referred to Lake County Juvenile Court Feb. 28 for disorderly conduct for transmitting an e-mail threat to another 13-year-old male, both students at Grayslake Middle School.

The e-mail, sent from the boy's home in Lake Villa to the home of the other student who also lived in Lake Villa, was brought to the attention of the administration who contacted Grayslake police.

"It was somewhat alarming in that it made a reference to the Littleton, Colo. shooting," Grayslake Police Commander Matt McCutcheon said March 1.

"Because of the recent school shootings, it's something that we feel is important to respond to," McCutcheon explained.

Grayslake Elementary District 46 Superintendent Dr. Kurt Anderson explained that the issue was between the two students and came to the attention of Grayslake Middle School staff when the boy who was threatened mentioned it in a counseling session at school.

"We made sure the proper authorities were notified and that the proper help was given," Anderson said.

Regarding the nature of the e-mail and recent school shootings, Anderson said, "We always have concerns. (We have) made the appropriate response to ensure safety for everyone."

The juvenile will also receive counseling, said McCutcheon.

Summer arts program offers elementary students experience

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The summer arts program is planned for Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS) again this year.

The board of education granted Roger Shule, AUGS art instructor, approval to hold two sections of the program this year. The expansion came following a request from Hastings Lake YMCA to offer an art program through the district.

Shule explained it works well for Hastings since the school district has a program already in place.

The Summer Arts Program 2000 will run July 10-28. Cost is $90 per student.

The exploring art program is designed to offer students the experiences encompassing the four elements of a discipline-based art education curriculum. Included in the curriculum is aesthetics, criticism, history and production.

As part of the format, major goals of art education will be addressed.

Goals of the program include the development, expression and evaluation of ideas and processes. The ability to produce, read and interpret visual symbols is also included.

The assimilation of information needed to recognize and understand the artistic achievements and expectations of various cultures is to be a part of the program.

Areas to be covered include ceramics with decorated tile, slab container and entrance relief. Print motif will be part of printmaking. Paper sculpture will have shadowbox, scrap sculpture and masks.

Still life, nature and fantasy will be covered during abstract painting, Contour drawing and non-objective painting is planned to be included.

If time permits, landscape painting, pop-up cityscape and abstract landscape will be part of a torn paper project.

The program is planned for three weeks, July 10-14, 17-21 and 24-28. The first session will be for students currently in second, third or fourth grades. The second session will be for students in fifth, sixth, seventh or eighth grades.

Session one is 8-10 a.m. Session two runs 10:15 a.m.-12:15 p.m.

A portion of the final day will be devoted to students displaying projects and critiquing works for parents and friends.

For information on the programs, contact Shule at 838-8342.

Dog Sledding in Alaska

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Seeing the many snowmobiles brought out by the storm last week got me thinking about the dog sled trip I took in Alaska about the same time of the year.

Not that there is much of a comparison to a snowmobile and a dog sled. That would be like comparing fast, noisy power boats to the quietness and natural feeling of sailing (bet you couldn't guess I have a sailboat). Anyhow, I got somewhat the same feeling in a dog sled.

Dog sled tours are not limited to the rough, arctic adventurer types. In fact, dog sledding is almost a lazy man's way to travel.
All you do is settle down into a comfortable, padded sled, wrap yourself in comfortable blankets and enjoy Alaska's unmatched scenery while your driver and dogs do the rest.

And what scenery it is! Gliding along in almost complete silence, you are surrounded by majestic white mountains, ancient blue glaciers, and wildlife everywhere!

Some tours include the opportunity to strap on snowshoes and do a little more wildness exploring.

Your seasoned guide will fill you with Alaska's long, and exciting history as well as fresh baked sourdough sandwiches and cinnamon rolls.

If you just want a taste of dog sledding, tours of as little as 30 minutes are available. For the real dog sled experience, though, I'd suggest a two night trip into McKinley Park where you'll see Alaska's most exciting country and spend the night in a real backwoods lodge.

A word to animal lovers. Anyone who knows me is aware of my concerns for animals. The dogs used for these teams not only are better fed than the average pet, but in a lot of cases, get more attention and love. There are no bits or any other device used to drive the dogs. You will never hear the crack of a whip. The dogs run because they enjoy it!

Uniform accents bid a final farewell

Every once in a while I get a call from a past acquaintance looking for a little publicity on a special event or happening. Always here to do a service to the public, I do my best to help out our fellow Antiochians. Such was the case this past week when the phone jangled and a voice that I used to sing with in the church choir came bouncing over the telephone line to me with a special request. I was asked to pass on some information about a merchant who has been in Antioch for about 20 years, servicing the needs of those in any type of profession who may be required to wear a uniform at their job.

Uniform Accents, located at 391 Lake St., in downtown Antioch,

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

across the street from the theater, has a complete supply of clothing for all occupations. They have nurses' uniforms, waitress attire, chef's apparel and painter smocks galore. Also in their inventory are regular blouses, tuxedo shirts and surgical equipment, stethoscopes and such. Well, after all these years of providing Lake County residents with clothing, the owners have decided to close their doors. The store will be open for one more week with March 10 being the final day the doors will be open.

There will be tremendous discounts on all the merchandise left in the store up until the final hurrah. So if you have a few spare minutes sometime this week and are in the need for any extra uniforms, or if you just need some good aprons or painting smocks to use in and around the house, stop by the store, check out the bargains, and wish the owners best of luck in their future endeavors.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Bos is now the big dog

Lee Oler looked on as his Grant High School record was in jeopardy this historic Tuesday night.

Wayne Bosworth set a new Bulldogs career points record with a 21-point outing as Grant edged Waukegan 58-56 in regional semifinal round action. The record-setting basket came when Bosworth picked up a loose ball, put in a jump shot and was fouled, leading to a three-point play the old fashioned way two minutes into the game. The new mark of 1,806 points was then set, topping Oler's previous mark of 1,789.

"We have had some good players here. He's a quality player, one of the best shooters," said Oler, watching before the thrilling battle took place in Fox Lake.

Bosworth, who received attention from several college coaches after the game, had some advantages that Oler's era of 1965-68 did not have. Bosworth played varsity ball all four years. And of course, there is the matter of the three-point shot, only a dream in Oler's dominant rebounding days.

"He played four years — but give him credit. He is pretty solid," said Oler.

Oler played guard, forward and center for Grant. He grew two inches, and his responsibilities moved closer to the basket. "It helped to be a guard before because I could handle the ball better when I started playing at center," said Oler.

Oler went on to play at Wisconsin in the Big Ten where he averaged 15 points a game for the Madison school.

"Back then, only the conference champion got to go to the NAAs, but I have no complaints," said Oler.

Oler played for Grant coach John Schad, who preceded Tom Maple's 25-year run as head coach. Oler's Grant resume still includes some lofty numbers: 1,038 rebounds in a career; 897 points in a season; 440 rebounds in a season; 34 rebounds a game. His 54 points in a single game probably won't be challenged. Bosworth's best was a 41-point outing this year.

Oler played AAU and men's league games until last year. He is a Fox Lake resident who coaches sophomore girls basketball and varsity golf at Waukegan.

Bos had 21 points, despite only three three-point shots, against Waukegan Tuesday, and leads the county with a sparkling 24.5 points per game clip.

Thanks to the thrilling win Tuesday, the season continues for the 15-win Grant team against heavily favored and No. 1 seed Warren (19-6) in Gurnee this Friday, March 3.

"There were a lot of colleges represented here tonight. What they saw was the real deal from Wayne," Maple said.

Maple is calling it quits after 32 years, 25 as head coach. Another Grant High veteran staffer is retiring as well.

Jerry Robinson, Grant's head ticket taker, collected his last $3 for tickets at Monday's game.

"I'll miss the people and seeing the parents and the kids growing up," said Robinson.

He has been collecting tickets since 1967, coordinating the effort since 1969. "I think I missed four home games," he said.

Robinson's friendly greetings will be missed by all who visit the Fox Lake school.

Schoenfelder in right place at right time

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

New position, familiar face. Antioch High's Athletic Director Steve Schoenfelder was definitely in the right place at the right time.

Last summer, he succeeded Jim Kafer, who had been at ACHS for five years. Schoenfelder is only the fourth athletic director in the last 40 years at the North Suburban school.

Ward Lear of course holds the longest tenure at ACHS with over 29 years at the helm of the athletic department.

Schoenfelder, before assuming his new role, served as dean as well as Kafer's assistant, spanning over a five-year period.

Prior to joining the Sequoits, Schoenfelder was the assistant principal at Gavin Central grade school in Ingleside for one year.

With the enthusiasm and success of the athletic teams this year, it seems to be a match made in heaven.

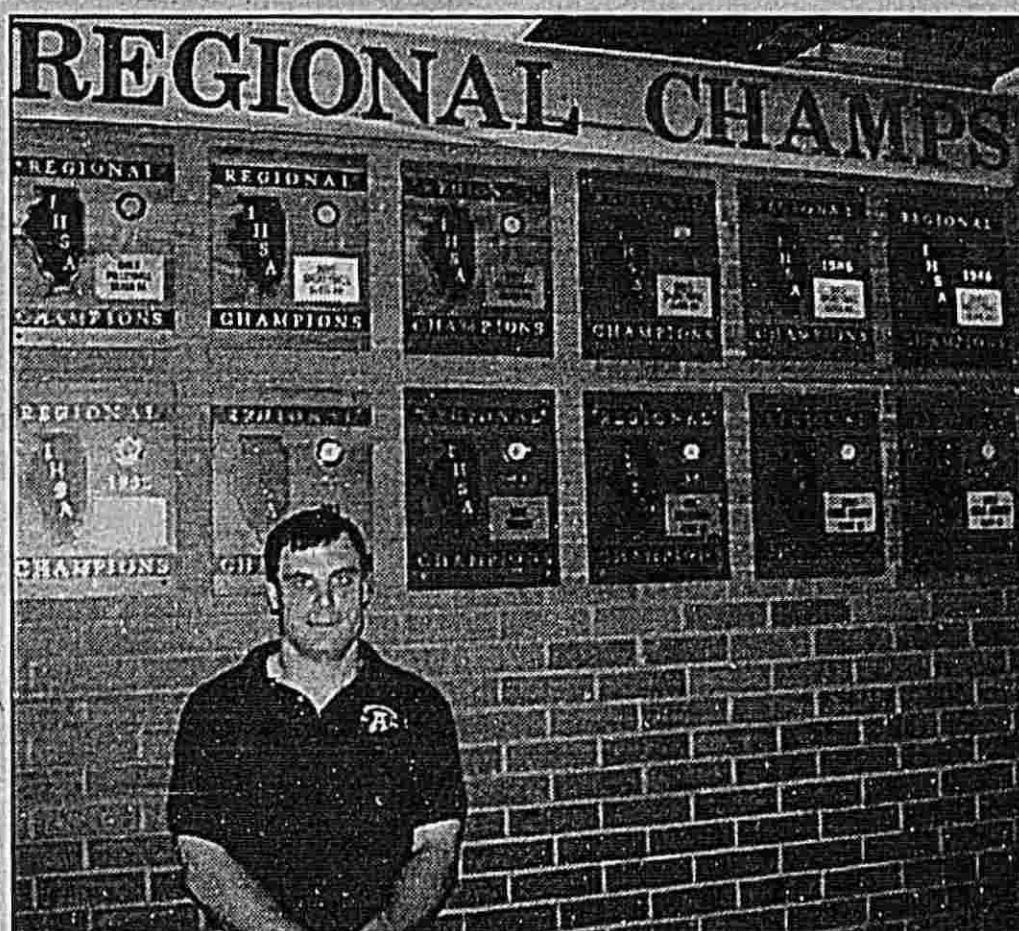

"It was the biggest gate we've had for a football game in over nine years," said Schoenfelder on the Sequoits home opener back in September. "The fall season definitely kicked off on the right foot."

Of course, the Sequoit football team clinched a playoff berth in dramatic fashion after shocking Stevenson in the final game of the season.

"All of the teams have had great success so far," Schoenfelder said. "The kids are becoming more involved and really supporting each other. And it only helps when they're successful."

Schoenfelder said his excitement in taking the position stems from, of course, the kids putting into the programs. But even more so, the community has been very supportive.

"I'd just like to continue to help create programs for the students," he said. "They're the one's who carry things to the next level. And they have been doing that."

One program that has reached great heights, especially this year, is 'Sequoit Pride.' The current 2000 Funding amount stands roughly around $28,583, which is designed to be spent on the kids.

Programs involved in Sequoit Pride include: 'Chemistry can be fun!'; the Annual Math Fair; Finesse Magazine publication expenses; Tom-Tom equipment; Show Choir costumes; Vocal Jazz Clinician; Madrigal costumes; Guest Artists;

Drum Line Instructor; Freshman Orientation; Senior Picnic; Senior Gifts; Jr. Prom; Teacher Appreciation; Soccer tournaments; cross country uniforms; track uniforms; basketball backboards; portable batting cage; volleyball uniforms; ultrasound equipment; football moms; portable observation tower; and, leadership conferences.

And much of the funding for these programs comes from a very supportive community, including local businesses, who have done an excellent job of raising monies to support the programs for the kids.

Sequoits look to turn on jets as second season has arrived

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

A chance for redemption! That was definitely on the minds of the Antioch boys varsity basketball team as they tangled with Lake Forest in first-round regional action Wednesday night.

For starters, it's a chance for Antioch, which has struggled to a 13-12 overall record, to step up and make some noise in a season that has been very inconsistent. Secondly, redemption will play a huge role because the Sequoits have lost twice to the Scouts during the regular-season North Suburban play.

Third time is a charm? "We're hoping that's the case," said head coach Jeff Dresser. "I think we have a good game plan. Lake Forest has so many guys that can hurt you. But if we contain they're interior players and keep our turnovers down, I definitely think we can beat them."

The first meeting some two months ago was one the Sequoits probably forgot about quickly. Lake Forest pretty much controlled the boards and outshot the Sequoits en route to a 49-39 victory.

The second time around, just two weeks ago, Antioch dug themselves out of a huge hole only to fall in the waning minutes.

"We showed a lot of character coming back from 16 down," noted Dresser. "We really learned some things in that game. We're very familiar with what they'll be trying to do against us. We just have to guard well and the defense has to step up."

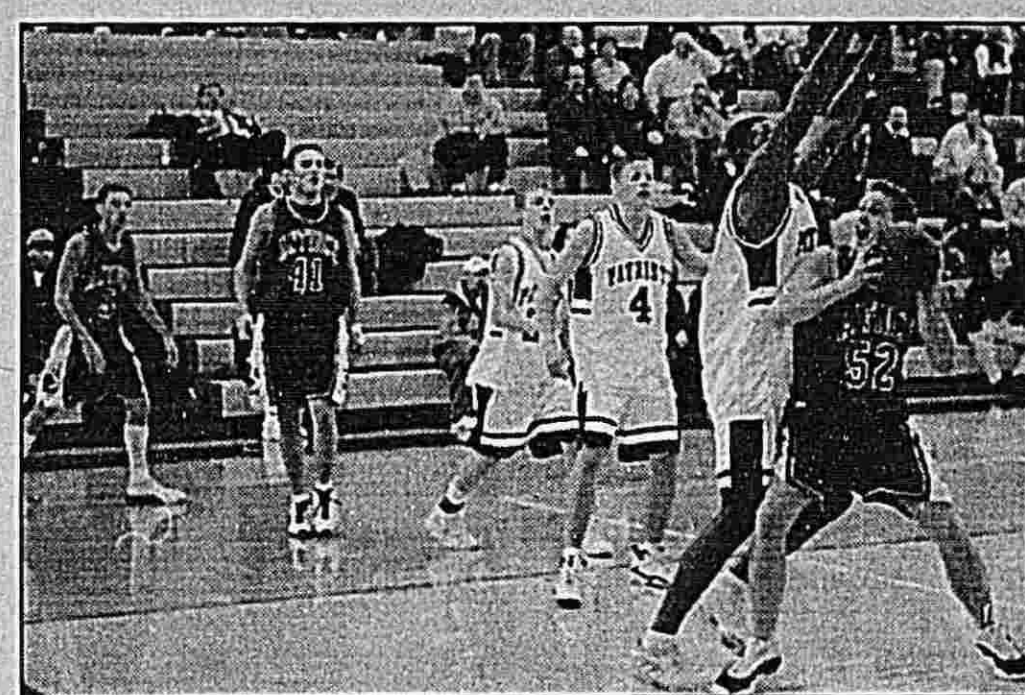

"We penetrated well and did a nice job dribbling and driving or dish-ing off to the open man. We need to get a lot of quality touches on the ball."

Several guys who have stepped up as of late include senior forward Don Lackey, who went into a shooting slump mid-way through the season.

"But he's regained that shooting touch and is playing with more confidence," said Dresser. "We just need to work on some fundamentals."

Junior shooting guard Eric White has been the Sequoits mainstay throughout the season, pouring in nearly 17 points per contest. The Sequoits will need him, along with Lackey, and junior guard Ari Brown if it wants to pull an upset over the sixth-seeded Scouts.

"Ari has also been shooting better," said Dresser. "He controlling his game better and shot around 67 percent against Stevenson."

And speaking of Stevenson; the Sequoits played well but fell to the Patriots 54-50 in last week's regular-season finale.

"We played well but just didn't match up too well against them," said Dresser. "We need to have three guys consistently in double-figures if we're going to have any chance of winning."

Well, against Stevenson, Antioch had three guys in double-digits. The difference was at the charity stripe.

For the game, Stevenson was 25-for-32 from the charity stripe, including 10-for-14 in the final frame as it held on for the win. Antioch was 2-for-4 from the line for the contest.

"We started out well," said Dresser. "We went up by 14 in the first quar-

'Sequoit Pride' would like to recognize and honor the following individuals who were instrumental in both the formation of Sequoit Pride, as well as keeping it going and growing for the students of Antioch Community High School.

They include: Donna Crivello, Rhonda Bradley, Steve Haenchen, Jim and Karol Hintz, Brad and Ellen Ipsen, Ed and Peggy Kozirowski, Dee Lang, Jim and Sharon Lienhardt, and John and Cecelia Sladek.

"We definitely want to continue harnessing that," noted Schoenfelder.

The Lions Club and Rescue Squads of Antioch are a couple of main supporters towards the high school's athletics. But it works hand in hand as the high school is, in turn, one of their main supporters.

"This is not a major industrial area," continued Schoenfelder. "So the local businesses identify with the high school has been excellent."

The high school recently concluded major renovations but it doesn't stop there as a new auditorium is scheduled for remodeling sometime this summer.

"That will be the crowning touch on the renovating," said Schoenfelder.

Though major strides are taking place on the North Suburban campus, Schoenfelder reserves a simple philosophy.

"I just want to help make it a better place and continue to find ways to be successful, both for the coaches as well as the kids."

Schoenfelder resides in Antioch with wife Cathy, daughter, 8-year old Erin, and 2-year old son Patrick.

With the combination of quality athletes, coupled with the involvement of the community and students, Schoenfelder has touched on a great point-Antioch is already a better place.

Children's advocates get them a fair shake in court, but more are desperately needed

By ROBERT WARDE
Managing Editor

Terri Greenberg sees her work as an investment in the future.

As instructor for the Court Appointed Special Advocate, or CASA, University, Greenberg knows that nationally 50 percent of abused and neglected children will become juvenile delinquents.

The way she sees it, the more-than-900 children currently in the Lake County juvenile court system because of abuse and neglect could contribute 450 delinquents in the future.

That's why Greenberg has become the leading advocate for the recruitment and training of these volunteers—CASAs, as they are known. These volunteers serve as observers, spending time with the troubled children to interview them and get to know the circumstances that led them to the courts.

They become the eyes and ears of the court. Given that a judge can only spend about five to seven minutes considering a child's circumstances, it is critical that someone act on the child's behalf and ensure that his needs are met—including counseling, placement in a foster home or psychological and medical treatment.

"(CASAs) independently tell the judge what's going on in a child's life," Greenberg said.

But much happens before a CASA can enter the life of one of these children. For example, potential CASAs must submit a completed application, undergo a background check and submit three references for review.

Then there is the training: a nine-week course that meets for two hours, twice a week, for a total of 36 hours. During these sessions, video tapes are viewed, lectures given and talks made by those on the front lines of the juvenile court system—including judges, case-workers, attorneys, counselors and foster parents.

It's all designed to introduce potential CASAs to the myriad of people that will come into a child's life after entering the court system. A child may encounter two or three judges, as many as five counselors and as many as five attorneys before a case is resolved.

"These children see so many adults entering and leaving their lives, that after a while, they no longer trust. We provide stability and hopefully, help them regain that trust," Greenberg said.

The children are not easily stereotyped. They come from varied backgrounds and may

Reader poll: The issue is tissue

Though it happened a while back, I continue to be depressed about Elizabeth Dole dropping out of the Republican presidential candidate race.

Not that I was going to vote for her, or anything. I have not yet forgotten about the time her hubby Bob was running for President and she had the questionable taste to appear on Jay Leno dressed up as a biker chick. Although, personally, I think that outfit got Bob pretty revved up, which would explain why he is now the Viagra spokesman. I can only imagine their conversation after the show:

"So, Bob, how did you like my outfit?"

"Vrrroooooom, vrrroooooom, Lizzy! Wish my gears weren't jammed!" Nevertheless, she WAS the only female candidate. And without good old Lizzy, I have serious doubts that any of the remaining candidates are capable of addressing a problem that affects American women all over this country ON A DAILY BASIS.

And why do I suspect these candidates can't address this issue? Why do I think they are unable to feel our pain? Because they are males! And I have reason to believe that males are responsible for this pain, which by the way is right here... IN OUR NECKS.

You ladies out there will know what I'm talking about. This is an issue that has been ignored for far too long. This issue affects all kinds of women: the rich; the poor; the middle class, and even those with no class at all.

The issue...is TISSUE.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

All over this country, on a daily basis, women are walking into bathrooms in their home, only to view the same, irritating scene: a full roll of toilet tissue, balanced atop the empty roll. Or on the floor. Or the back of the toilet. Anywhere but ON the roller.

And, despite your protests to the contrary, fellas ("I don't know...wasn't me!"), we are fairly certain you're the culprits.

Why, even my six-year-old daughter is already changing the toilet tissue roll. Granted, this may indicate that this is some sort of hereditary gender issue, but that does not make it any less of a problem.

Who can really say what terrible consequences this may be causing? We're talking women suffering from lip biting, teeth grinding, frenzied mumbling and who knows what else? It's hard to be sure because there are no real statistics on the subject.

Even the tissue manufacturers claim to know nothing about this problem. I visited the websites for two popular brands of toilet tissue, Charmin and Kleenex® Cottonelle®, and in their "Frequently Asked Questions" sections, not once did I see the following:

"Why is that men cannot put a new roll of toilet tissue ON THE ROLLER?!"

Still, I did learn everything else I ever wanted to know about toilet tissue...and more. For example, according to the makers of Charmin:

1. The average consumer uses 20,805 sheets of bath tissue annually—that's about 105 Charmin Regular Rolls (200 sheets) or 35 Charmin Triple Rolls (600 sheets).

2. The number of days a standard roll of bath tissue usually lasts in the most-used bathroom in the house is five, according to consumers.

While this did not address the tissue issue, I learned something else: the makers of Charmin are bad at math. If, for example, the average consumer uses one roll every five days, that would be 72.4 rolls annually, not 105. And I think those consumers they spoke with were either mixed-up or lived alone. I don't know about you but a roll of bathroom tissue has never lasted five days in our house unless we were on vacation.

But, let's get back to the main tissue issue. Dismayed by these companies' oversights, I sent e-mails to their customer service folks. Charmin's people responded that they were sorry but didn't have any research on this, and the Kleenex® Cottonelle® folks said that this issue has never been addressed by them.

No wonder this problem exists! No one will get off his or her duff to do any research. Well, I say that when it comes to the issue of tissue, I'm mad as heck and I'm not going to change it anymore.

Stay with me, folks. I'm on a roll.

If it's research that's needed, let's give it to them! Readers, grab your pens or head for your computers and drop me a line right now with your answers to the following questions:

1. Who does (or doesn't) put the toilet tissue on the roller at your house?

2. Which Presidential candidate do you think would be most capable of putting the toilet tissue on the roller?

My mail/e-mail addresses are printed here at the end of my column. I'll publish your responses here in a couple of weeks.

Aquarium accepting applications for summer program

Shedd Aquarium is accepting applications from local high school students for this summer's High School Marine Biology (HSMB) program—an experience filled with hands-on experiments, activities and discussions both at Shedd Aquarium and aboard the Aquarium's research vessel, the R/V Coral Reef II, in the Bahamas. Program applications are due by April 1st.

"This once-in-a-lifetime opportunity lets students test out the waters of the life of a marine biologist," said Michelle Wildes, director of the HSMB program. "Students will encounter aspects of life they've never imagined, and we hope they take this knowledge and experience back with them to influence their future decisions and promote conservation."

For the past three decades, Shedd Aquarium has given high school students this unique opportunity to learn about marine biology. The journey starts in Chicago by diving into learning through laboratory exercises, lectures and discussions. The adventure continues in the Bahamas for a week of intense study. Using the research vessel as a floating laboratory, students become scientists at seasurveying tidepools, invertebrates, marine debris, currents and more.

To apply, students must have completed one year of high school science by June 2000, write an essay explaining why they want to participate in the program, submit a swimming skills verification, two teacher recommendations and a high school transcript.

This year's HSMB program costs $1,600, excluding airfare to and from Miami. Full and partial scholarships are available. To receive an HSMB application, students should contact Shedd Aquarium's education department at 312/692-3159.

Shedd Aquarium is supported by the people of Chicago through the Chicago Park District.

be victims of domestic violence, abused or neglected—there may be any variety of reasons for their entering the courts.

Their needs aren't always legal. Children in need of CASAs may also be in need of medical attention, counseling or other services. Part of the CASA training provides the skills needed to evaluate and recommend actions or referrals for the children.

"We're the eyes and ears for the courts. We independently tell the judge what's going on in a child's life," Greenberg said. CASAs go to court each time a child does.

The advocates have become so important to the court system in the county, that judges at times order Greenberg to appoint one. "I look at him and say, 'I'm all out,'" Greenberg said.

That's because there is a shortage. Because of the lack of advocates, in all but the most serious cases, children must make their way through the courts without an advocate. In some cases, Greenberg said that the more experienced CASAs are pushed to take two cases, though it is preferred that they handle only one at a time.

With the children in need and the courts pushing Greenberg to assign advocates, what's the problem? An acute shortage of volunteers to take the training.

Greenberg wants literally to have an advocate for each of the 900 children who needs one. That's why the CASA office has developed the training class.

Volunteers learn about many topics, including child abuse and neglect; child development and attachment; substance abuse; government agencies; court proceedings; court representation and the juvenile court experience. Most every topic needed to guide an advocate, and child, through the court system is presented, according to Greenberg.

Greenberg said that the fact that people are busy was taken into account when the training was designed. Classes meet in the morning, late morning and evenings. In addition to the lectures by experts from the juvenile court system and videotapes, volunteers must spend time with a case manager who goes with them to court and guides them through the process.

Volunteers must also observe at least two days of juvenile court proceedings and be sworn in before beginning to serve. Two classes can be missed, though the volunteer must view the missed videotape. The classes are conducted every nine weeks.

"It's offering more options, we're attracting more volunteers," Greenberg said. She does emphasize that many more are desperately needed.

Who volunteers? Greenberg said there is a great variety of volunteers from all walks of life. A recent survey of volunteers revealed that some are gardeners, police officers, and attorneys. Some are college seniors just 21-years-old. Many are retired from many occupations. There is also a chief of police and some police officers.

Fifty-three percent are between the ages of 40 and 60. Seventy-five percent attended college and 25 percent have graduate degrees.

"It's a wonderful mix of people coming from all walks of life," Greenberg said. "They're bonding in a common goal of giving these children a voice."

Greenberg said she couldn't imagine overstating the importance CASAs make in children's lives. "We make a tremendous difference in the outcome of cases. We guide them to a permanent, safe home—whether natural or adoptive," she said.

HOROSCOPE

Aries — March 21/April 20

Be careful when talking with an acquaintance about a financial situation. Don't say too much, or you're sure to regret it. This person will tell others your private information. A close friend asks you for romantic advice. Be honest with him or her. Gemini plays an important role late in the week.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't let a business associate boss you around early in the week, Taurus. This person has no right to tell you what to do. Exert your authority, and show him or her who's the boss. The person whom you've been seeing has a surprise for you. Enjoy it, because you deserve this.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

There is a lot going on this week, Gemini. So, try to stay focused on what you have to do. It's not going to be easy, because your friends are vying for your attention. Ignore everyone until you accomplish what you need to do. A loved one needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Don't get upset when a loved one doesn't have much time for you this week, Cancer. This person still cares for you very much; he or she simply is busy right now. Give him or her time to get things done. Don't worry — you'll spend a lot of time together during the weekend.

Leo — July 23/August 23

Try to keep your emotions in check at work this week, Leo. A co-worker purposely is trying to upset you. Don't give this person the satisfaction. Stay calm, cool and collected. Remember, the higher-ups are watching you. You meet an interesting person late in the week. Get to know him or her better, because this could be the one.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Be selective when it comes to making plans this week. A lot of people say that they want to help you with things, but you know that only some of them mean it. Figure out who is sincere. A friend introduces you to an interesting person on Wednesday. Get to know him or her better.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

A close friend turns to you in a time of need. Listen to what he or she has to say, and give your honest opinion about the situation. Your efforts will be appreciated. A loved one invites you to dinner late in the week. Say yes, because it's sure to be fun.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't let your ego get the best of you when you meet an important business associate early in the week. This person really can help your career. So, don't alienate him or her by being conceited. That special someone needs a favor from you this weekend. Do what you can to help.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't back down from a confrontation with a co-worker when you know that you are right. He or she just wants to make you look bad. If you stand your ground and explain yourself, you're sure to come out victorious. An acquaintance asks to borrow money. Find out what he or she needs it for before saying yes.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

A loved one gets into trouble early in the week and needs your help. Give this person some advice, but don't get too involved in the situation. It only will create problems for you. The person you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Say yes, because you know that this is what you want too.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Look at all of the pros and cons before making an important decision this week, Aquarius. You have a lot riding on this — don't do anything rash. Turn to loved ones for help if you need it. They can help you make the right choice. Capricorn plays an important role on Tuesday.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

Be sympathetic when an acquaintance comes to you for help with a problem. Do what you can for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. A close friend turns to you for romantic advice. Be honest with him or her.

Sinise, Morton star in 'One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest'

Based on the classic Ken Kesey novel, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is a celebration of the human spirit, a timeless, universal theme that resonates with audiences as much today as it did 25 years ago when it inspired the film of the same name starring Jack Nicholson. Don't miss this opportunity to see the staged production of the play at the Steppenwolf Theatre, 1650 N. Halsted, Chicago, Thursday, April 13.

Featuring Amy Morton and Academy Award nominee Gary Sinise, it is the story of an incorrigible rebel who goes up against an equally stubborn nurse and the confines of a mental hospital he can not escape.

The performance will benefit The Center for Enriched Living (CEL), Chicagoland's only non-residential facility dedicated to enriching the lives of people of all ages with developmental disabilities.

Brookfield Zoo staff handrear polar bear cub

Staff intervention saves orphaned cub

Tiguak (pronounced tee-ghoo-ah-k), a 3-month-old polar bear cub at Brookfield Zoo, is healthy and acting as a polar bear cub should thanks to the intervention and dedication of zoo veterinarians and animal care staff and nutritionists. Tiguak means "adopted" in the language of the Inuit people native to Arctic areas.

Arki, a 16-year-old polar bear, gave birth to two females on October 30, 1999. For reasons unknown to staff, Arki stopped giving her cubs the proper care they needed. This behavior seemed unusual to staff since Arki successfully raised a cub that was born in November 1996.

On November 4th, staff intervened and brought the two 1 1/2-pound cubs to the zoo's Animal Hospital where they received intensive medical treatment. The most serious concerns were dehydration and loss of body heat. They were immediately given fluids and warmed with blankets and heated water bottles. Even though every attempt was made, one of the cubs did not survive.

"Polar bear cubs are small, deaf, and blind at birth and spend the first three to four months of their lives within the safety of a den," according to Ann Petric, curator of mammals for Brookfield Zoo.

Once Tiguak was stabilized she was placed into an incubator in order to maintain her body temperature. Animal care staff, committed to saving the vulnerable cub, monitored her 24-hours-a-day, making sure her heart rate and other vital functions were normal and feeding her every two to three hours. The Zoo Nutrition Services staff developed a formula based on studies of wild polar bear milk and the experiences of other zoos that have handreared cubs.

"When she was only two weeks old, Tiguak became sick and stopped nursing from a bottle," said Dr. Tom Meehan, chief veterinarian of Brookfield Zoo. "During this critical period, we consulted with a specialist in high risk infant care from Loyola University Medical Center, and a speech pathologist also from Loyola, who aided us in successfully getting Tiguak back to nursing. We're very pleased that she is now thriving and gaining weight rapidly. At three months of age she already weighs 22 pounds." When she is full grown, Tiguak will weigh about 600 pounds.

Zoo staff are monitoring her behavior and developmental stages carefully and she continues to receive highly specialized care in an off exhibit area. Keepers are providing stimulation to encourage natural behavior, including introducing her to ice blocks, snow, and water. "She really seemed to enjoy her first bath," added Meehan.

"In terms of her future, Tiguak's well being is our main concern," said Petric. "Unfortunately, because she was separated from her mom at such an early age, the maternal bond is permanently broken and it is not possible to reunite them. We have been searching for a companion bear for her and whether she will remain at Brookfield Zoo or be transferred to another zoo has not been decided yet. Our primary objective is to help Tiguak develop into a healthy and independent bear who can one day successfully participate in the polar bear breeding program by raising her own cubs."

Although not on exhibit, zoo guests can view a video of Tiguak in the zoo's Discovery Center lobby and near Bear Grotto.

Petric added, "We are grateful for the information and counsel we've received from medical professionals and other zoos around the country. This kind of collaboration and dedication is extraordinary in one sense, yet common because that's what routinely takes place in a time of need when working with a living collection."

Open every day of the year, Brookfield Zoo is located at First Avenue and 31st Street in Brookfield, Ill., just 14 miles west of downtown Chicago. The zoo is accessible via the Stevenson (I-55) and Eisenhower (I-290) expressways, Tri-State Tollway (I-294), Burlington Northern commuter line, and PACE bus service. For more information about Brookfield Zoo, visit its Web site at www.brookfieldzoo.org.

These aren't Rudolph's 'Reindeer Games'

Ben Affleck has been dying for a chance like this. A chance to act in movies other than a romantic comedy, (Forces of Nature) or hyped dramas, (Good Will Hunting, Shakespeare in Love). He's been dreaming of his own action film, his own Die Hard.

To his credit, Frankenheimer did the best with what he was given, but you can't ask the man who directed The Manchurian Candidate to direct Con Air.

Granted the action scenes, though few and far between, are effective, but any good action film needs a decent script and Reindeer Games just doesn't have one.

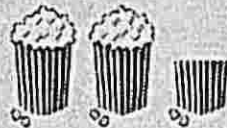

While Rudy just wants to go home, Nick is dreaming of a girl that he met through a magazine, Ashley (Charlize Theron), and their rendezvous outside the prison gates.

Unfortunately, Nick apparently dies in a lunch room riot leaving Rudy with the chance to pass himself off as his deceased cellmate and hook up on the outside with Ashley. Following their meeting, and a very realistic looking love scene, the two appear very much in love and on their way to living happily ever after.

That all changes, however, when Ashley's brother Gabriel (Gary Sinise) and his gang of gun-running truckers appear on the scene to rob a casino with the help of Nick/Rudy.

Gabriel, through reading his sister's letters from Nick, learned that

Rudy then spends the rest of the film either trying to convince the gang he's not Nick, trying to escape, or trying to thwart the

Towards the end, the film actually tries to become suspenseful following double and triple-crosses from virtually every character.

The end of the film actually reminds me a little of The Usual Suspects in the way that the final plot twist is supposed to make the whole movie make sense.

However, this film has no

"Keyser Soze," no criminal mastermind for the plot to fall back on. These criminals are stupid, sloppy and unprepared.

The only things that hold this picture together are the action and the acting from Affleck and Sinise. Maybe next time Affleck will pick a better script.

I gave Reindeer Games two and a half out of five popcorn boxes.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Homecoming' proves Pinter's durability

Many a thumbnail sketch of Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming" has described this 1965 play as disturbing, dark, enigmatic—and funny.

Famous Door Theatre, under the excellent direction of Gary Griffin, makes the most of Pinter's ingenious drama. For this revival, Griffin has assembled a top-flight cast that captures all the quirkiness and nuances of the dysfunctional North London family around which it is built.

After a six-year absence, a young man (Teddy) returns to England for a surprise visit to finally show off his bride. The family homestead, somewhat the worse for wear, houses the aging/raging father (Max, played with bellicose, peckish fervor by Roderick Peeples); Same, Max's prissy, ever-correct brother (Larry Neumann Jr. in fine form); and Teddy's two self-absorbed odd-duck brothers.

Marc Grapey is menacing as Lenny, gambler and pimp; and Kelly Van Kirk plays Joey, the would-be professional fighter who, if they were giving out grades for communications skills, would get a D-minus.

Scott Kennedy, as the aloof Teddy, has come back to make a connection the family he had left behind. Yet they see his wife Ruth (Elaine Rivkin) as a kind of substi-

Cleaning windows: Simple steps to a clearer outlook

Some windows look like they were cleaned with a good amount of spit and an oily mechanic's rag. Sticky fingers and wet noses pressed to the glass can wreak havoc on your view as well. But some windows look worse after they've been cleaned. What could possibly have gone wrong? Plenty.

Hastily pursuing the perfect view can mean forgetting the most important credos of crystal-clear windows: clean water and the right tools. So, how do you get windows to sparkle the first time? It's really not that hard.

Let's preface this by saying that there are many ways to do this job "right," and this is one method. Commercial window cleaning solutions can work well, but are not necessary for the job. Old-fashioned household cleaners are plentiful in most homes, as well as being inexpensive. Experts suggest beginning with the right stuff: rubber gloves; two buckets or one bucket with two wells; sudsy ammonia; white vinegar; rubbing alcohol; several clean, dry rags; a squeegee; and a ladder (if necessary).

Follow these steps for the best view you've ever enjoyed:

1. Read and follow the manufacturer's instructions on each cleaning agent and all tools before beginning. In addition, use extreme caution when using ladders and working around open windows to maintain safe operation and avoid injury. If elevation devices are required, do not use furniture. Only use equipment intended for this purpose, such as ladders, scaffolding and step stools, and follow all manufacturer's instruction for safe operation.

2. Fill both buckets with 1-2 gallons of the hottest water your gloved hands can stand. Use caution in handling hot water to avoid burns and scalding.

3. In one of the two buckets, add one cup each of ammonia and vinegar, plus two tablespoons of rubbing alcohol and stir. The latter will help water evaporate quickly and gives windows that "twinkle" factor.

4. Begin on the top story of the house, at the top of the window.

5. Wipe the entire surface with the solution. If necessary, bugs, stickers and other stubborn marks can be removed using a new straightedge blade, being careful to avoid personal injury or damage to the window. Once the dirt is removed, wipe the window a second time with the clear water.

6. Immediately squeegee the window, using a rag to wipe the squeegee dry after each swipe. This will limit the streaks caused by wet lines of water at the squeegee's edge and eliminate dripping onto your sparkling windows with wet tools.

7. Use a clean cloth to wipe only the wet corners and the sill.

Here are some extra tips:

- Again, use extreme care when working around window openings. Never leave a window unattended, especially when children are present. Falls may result in serious injury or death.

- Try wiping in only one direction - horizontal or vertical - on the inside of the house and the other direction on the outside. If you do find streaks, you'll know which side needs to be redone.

- Change the water often to limit or eliminate streaking.

- Tie a rope to your squeegee and secure it to the ladder or your belt in case you drop it. Letting the solution dry onto the window while you climb up and down to retrieve your tools could be the difference between sparkle and debacle.

- Try cleaning windows on cloudy, but dry, days. Sunlight dries the solution too fast and makes streaks more likely.

- Really dirty windows may need to be rinsed with the garden hose first, but be prepared to clean them immediately. Hard water stains can be stubborn.

One of first farmers, Flood dies at age 85

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

From the time he was seven years old and carrying around his miniature milk pail, Raymond Flood's life was all about farming and living off of the land. The quiet and humble lifetime resident of unincorporated Libertyville died Feb. 23. His home, built over 130 years ago by his great-grandfather, was the point at which his life began in 1915 and ended 85 years later.

Rev. William Genda of the Gurnee Community Church likened Flood, in his eulogy, to the wooden carpenter's plane he received from Flood years ago. Genda said that "like a plane" Flood did not "jump in with an ax or saw—he shaped things a little at a time."

Flood: Was instrumental in building up the Farm Bureau

Indeed the Grayslake and Gurnee communities benefited from Flood's ability to help contour and define the then rural towns through his association with the Lake County Farm Bureau, the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, Woodland Consolidated School District 50 and, most importantly the Lake County Fair Association. According to Mary

Gunia, executive secretary of the association, Flood served on the board

Property owners fight for their rights

Two west Lake County property owners, disgruntled over two lower court rulings that have impinged on their private property rights, are planning an Illinois Supreme Court appeal.

"We have to because the rulings establish a terrible precedent," declared Marianne Amann of rural Round Lake.

Amann and her neighbors, Jack and Janice Pittelkow have been engaged in a three-year battle to protect right of access to their property that is land-locked by the huge Valley Lakes Subdivision, 1,800 homes being built on more than 500 acres in Avon and Grant Townships by millionaire Penny Pritzker.

Farm Bureau recommends candidates for county board

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

The Lake County Farm Bureau Legislative Committee has announced its recommendation of 10 candidates seeking county board seats in the March 21 primary.

The candidates, in qualification interviews conducted by the committee, were rated on their experience and knowledge of issues important to the Farm Bureau, including peaker power plants, courthouse security, county redistricting and the role of the forest preserve in keeping larger tracts of land in production agriculture. The candidates were required to attain a minimum 75 percent approval rating of such issues in order to receive a bureau recommendation, said committee chairman Lynn Doolittle.

County shoots down 'elevated' housing plans

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

The lofty plans by Antioch developer John Lewis for the construction of Hutchins Woods subdivision in unincorporated Warren Township were shot down by the Lake County Board's Planning, Building and Zoning Committee at its last meeting.

Lewis' foiled attempt to develop his 5-acre parcel of property, located on the east side of Hutchins Rd., about one-quarter mile north of Rte. 132, may result in a lawsuit against the county.

The committee rejected the proposed subdivision based on the fact that a number of the single-family houses and townhouses in the plan would be constructed on an existing cul-de-sac that is ten feet higher than the surrounding properties. Residents who opposed the development two years ago claimed that the new homes could cause drainage problems, lower property values and obstruct their view.

Town and Country Homes, developers of the adjacent Bridlewood subdivision, built the cul-de-sac to extend Banbury Dr. into the Lewis property. But, according to Lake County Board member Al Westerman, who represents Warren Township in the 7th District, the initial court agreement between Town and Country and Lewis indicated that the cul-de-sac would be constructed at grade level. He contends that when the preliminary plat was approved in 1996, no one was told the cul-de-sac for over 30 years. He held the position of president from 1966 to 1987.

"Ray always had the interests of the Fair Association at heart and consequently, that affected our community," said Gunia. "He saw the county fair as a good, family activity that has continued for many, many years. Ray will be greatly missed."

Son Stanley Flood said that his dad "liked the fair so much" because he liked to see the kids involved.

"My dad was a firm believer in passing on education and looking for ways to improve things," explained Stanley Flood. "He enjoyed helping the kids because they were the future."

While on the board of the fair association, Flood was instrumental in forming a cooperative agreement with the Farm Bureau for the acquisition of the current land upon which the Lake County Fairgrounds sit, said Dick Raftis, manager of the farm bureau. Raftis also pointed out that Flood initiated the various shows that are held throughout the year at the fairgrounds.

"The Lake County Fair is one of a very few in the state that is financially solvent because the land is used all the time," commented Raftis.

According to Stanley Flood, his dad also played a big part in obtaining adequate health insurance for county farmers through Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois.

"Back in the early 50's you had to be self-sufficient," said Stanley Flood. "My dad learned that responsibility from early on and continued until his retirement in 1977."

Flood leaves behind one of 13 farms in Lake County recognized by the state as centennial farms. These farms have stayed in one family for over 100 years. Stanley Flood says his mother, Sallye and brother Gordon plan to remain where they are to maintain the farm property.

Stanley Flood mentioned that the elder Flood "reluctantly accepted" the changes in Lake County in regard to dwindling farms and open space.

"He accepted the fact that change is inevitable," said Stanley Flood.

"I think people will remember my dad as pretty quiet and humble—a gentleman who always had a smile and kind word," concluded Stanley Flood.

'ELEVATED'

was elevated to 10 feet.

"We'd like to know who approved the cul-de-sac to be put there," stated Westerman. "We cannot find any documentation that allowed that road to be elevated and no one has stepped forward to say the county approved the road."

"This would impact the aesthetics and quality of life for the surrounding residents. It is an artificial creation, and does not fit into the natural grade," Westerman commented further.

According to Westerman, Lewis was instructed, in 1999, to consider lowering the grade of the road or not build homes on the higher elevation. Lewis did not agree because of the cost factors involved.

Westerman said Lewis has the recourse to appeal the committee's decision before a full county board, but the issue is really between Lewis and Town and Country Homes.

"Lewis should sue Town and Country to take the road out and put it in at grade level," said Westerman, speculating that the higher-grade lot sites would be more marketable because of walkout basements.

BOARD

Schmidt (R-Lake Villa) and Schmidt's challenger, Richard Russell of Lindenhurst, both met the Farm Bureau's standards.

District 17 incumbent Stevenson Mountsier (R-Barrington) and his opponent John Schnure of Barrington have also qualified for recommendation.

Incumbents in the following districts have also met the criteria established by the Farm Bureau, and are thus recommended for county board seats: District 5, Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside); District 6, Larry Leafblad (R-Grayslake); District 13, John Schullen (R-Libertyville); District 19, Robert Grever (R-Kildeer); District 22, Carol Spielman (D-Highland Park).

Republican Glenn R. Stewart of Zion has received the bureau's recommendation to fill the District 4 seat to be vacated by County Board Chairman Jim Labelle (R-Zion).

RIGHTS

condemnation action taken by the Village of Round Lake acting on behalf of Penquin Corp. The development is the wealth of a Chicago family which has owned property off Route 134 for 30 years.

Penquin sought to relocate the private road to maximize development rights. Amann, who is on disability from Abbott Laboratories, said upholding the condemnation action has the effect of leaving the roadway where it is.

The two property owners were awarded $50 each in the lower court ruling handed down by Lake County Circuit Judge Charles Scott. The Appellate Court ruling was handed down Feb. 15.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Counterfeit bills made on computer

Lake Zurich—Lake Zurich Police Department is investigating how more than 10 counterfeit $20 bills were distributed in and near Lake Zurich High School.

Eight students, ages 15 to 17, were involved in the scheme, which was discovered on Feb. 23.

"We hope to have a resolution with the case with the Secret Service by the end of the week," Det. Sgt. Rod Chesser of Lake Zurich Police said.

There have been about 10 to 15 phony bills circulated. They first turned up in the LZHS cafeteria.

State calls Welton 'deadbeat taxpayer'

Gurnee—Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton was named on the State of Illinois' Internet delinquent taxpayer list on Feb. 28. The State Department of Revenue claims that Welton Food Mart Inc., the mayor's now out-of-business grocery enterprise, owes $110,017.37 in sales tax from November of 1997.

Welton said that the taxes, which have grown from around $35,000 because of interest, were taken care of when his store was bought by Roundy's, the company that operates Pick and Save grocery stores.

Since his name has been posted on the Internet, Welton has met with his lawyers and accountant. He said that they are currently working to clear the debt and his name.

"I don't think it's good publicity," said Welton. "I've become pretty callused after being in politics. I'm used to being chastised and put down. But I don't like it."

Other village officials feel that the public should see all the information before condemning or supporting the mayor.

"I would hope people would be fair and give him the benefit of the doubt," said Trustee Don Rudny. "There have been cases where the state has admitted to making mistakes."

GCBS over budget on renovation plan

Grayslake—Six areas of planned remodeling and expansion at Grayslake Community High School are $940,000 over budget, according to plans discussed at the most recent District 127 board of education meeting.

The projects include three phases in the arena area, one in the industrial/technology education area, one in the family and consumer science area and one in the cafeteria.

The discussion centered around remodeling of the technology area, which includes the computer-aided design (CAD) lab, and the necessity of the proposed cafeteria expansion.

Associate Superintendent/Business Affairs David Bonner explained that the technology renovations were necessary for teaching purposes. "It's more curriculum driven than anything. These are things needed to make it run most efficiently," he said.

The remodeling cost of the technology area includes the equipment needed to expand the services offered, said Bonner.

Board members went back and forth on the issue of necessity of cafeteria expansion. Shirley Christian, board secretary, stressed the importance of the lunch period for socializing. "We do need to give them some space to move," she commented.

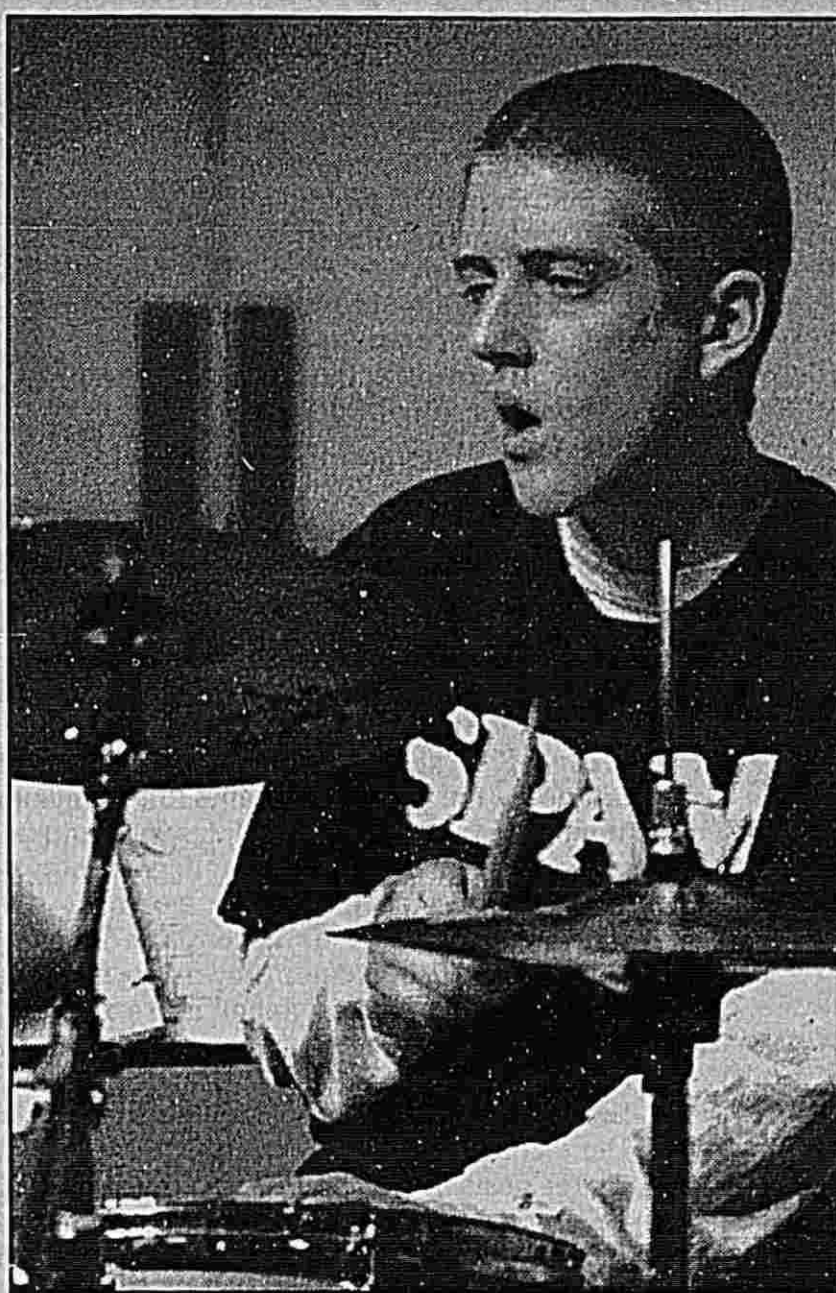

Vernon Hills joins Internet task force

Vernon Hills—Vernon Hills was added to a task force team that helps fight crimes against children related to the Internet.

Attorney General Jim Ryan announced that Vernon Hills was added to the Illinois Child Exploitation Task Force in February.

The force was created in December 1997 to combat the growing threat of child sexual predators who use the Internet to victimize children, according to a written statement released by Ryan.

The task force includes 61 investigators and prosecutors from 41 federal, state, county and municipal agencies, which work together to investigate and prosecute pedophiles who use the Internet to prey on children, according to the statement.

"The department recognizes that the task force includes some of the most experienced officers in the state who are well known for their computer and Internet expertise," said John Kincaid, acting police chief of Vernon Hills. "We look forward to joining this successful task force and working together to protect the citizens of Vernon Hills."

Condell to start training paramedics

Mundelein—The Mundelein Fire Department and other fire prevention districts in the area will benefit greatly from Condell Medical Center's designation as a resource hospital by the state.

The Libertyville hospital will now be responsible for training paramedics and emergency medical technicians (EMT) in Mundelein, Libertyville, Vernon Hills, Grayslake, Wauconda and Round Lake beginning in August.

Mundelein Fire Chief Randy Justus said that Condell's new program gives his department many advantages.

"We're really excited about it," he said. "We hope to have more input on how the project is run. And it's certainly closer."

According to the Condell, Lake County's 33 percent growth rate from 1980-1996 and the number of ambulances that travel more than 20 miles for a paramedic course are two reasons why the Illinois Department of Public Health designated Condell a resource hospital.

Dog owner claims handler's neglect

Lake Villa—Tiff, an award-winning show dog with a special talent for detecting seizures was said to be lost Feb. 23 when her handler, Sally Jensen, fell while loading the dog into a van in Lake Villa in the vicinity of Rte. 83 and Sarah Rd., just south of Rte. 132.

However, owner Cathy Peters said that an employee of the Jensens has since come forward and alleged that the couple made up that story.

"One of their assistants called and said what really happened," Peters explained.

She said that Tiff was let out in an unfenced yard around 8:30 a.m. to relieve herself. The assistant said that the dog was forgotten until about 2:30 p.m. in the afternoon when they were preparing to load the van.

A boundary search was done and the dog could not be found, so the assistant said the Jensen couple made up the story that Sally Jensen was loading the van when she slipped and fell, dropping the dog's leash. He said that the Jensens compelled him to go along with the story.

"She was a highly trained obedience dog and would not run off," stated Peters. She contends that Tiff was a "seizure alert" dog who would not have abandoned a fallen person. "Now the story makes sense because therapy dogs don't run away," she said.

Tiff was killed and turned in to Animal Control when she was hit by a car Feb. 25 at Rte. 120 and Hunt Club Rd. near Gurnee.

Residents to discuss Loon Lake

Antioch—A forum on plans for the Loon Lake area is planned for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 23.

The unofficially sanctioned meeting will be held at the Antioch Senior Center, 817 Holbeck Dr., in Antioch, across from the Piggly Wiggly.

Meeting organizers are hopeful of a large turnout of Loon Lake residents who will have the opportunity to raise their objections to some of the considered developments.

According to a flier being circulated by meeting organizers, the "quality of living will be jeopardized" if the plans for development of the area become a reality.

Tom Keefe, a resident of Loon Lake, raised questions about the possibility of a 32-acre parcel north of Grass Lake Rd. being annexed into Lake Villa.

The proposed 290 self storage units planned for construction along the open area bounded on the north side by Grass Lake Rd. and the east end of W. Loon Lake Blvd. is raising the anger of Keefe and others who are putting the meeting together.

According to information contained in the meeting flier, a possible Bass Pro outlet to be used for boat trials is being considered for an area adjacent to the storage site. A recreational vehicle retail sales store is planned for the intersection of Grass Lake and Villa Rica Rds. The third planned construction is a waterfront sales office for boats and jet skis along Loon Lake's south shore.

If all of these developments come about, problems the group sees include pollution to Loon Lake, inadequate disbursement of storm water run off, traffic related stress and pollution plus reduction of open space.

For judge: Hall, Rathje, Ridgway

Despite protestations from judicial elitists and governmental tinkerers who are in love with the idea of merit selection of judges, Illinois doggedly retains the system of direct election of judges. For good reason. Voter selection of the judiciary has served the people of Illinois well, with the exception of Cook County where corruption on the bench is so common citizens just shrug and wait until the next robed denizen of the bench is indicted.

Elsewhere, though, particularly in Lake County, voters generally have made excellent selections of who sits in judgment in the local court system. Lake County jurists for years have rated at or near the top year after year for case load handled and low number of reversals at the appellate level.

Among the reasons why we like direct selection is that it keeps judges in touch with the people, puts a "face" on the judicial system, and, frankly, is a wholesome humbling experience for the candidates. For office seekers, there's nothing like knocking on someone's door and asking for their vote to get a feel for life as it is lived.

Thus, in the March 21 primary election, voters will be asked to pick nominees for four different courts. Republicans have competition at all levels. Only one Democrat has filed for judge of the Supreme Court for a northern Illinois district. No Democratic candidates filed for nominations for an Appellate Court seat and two Circuit Court seats in the 19th Judicial Circuit of Lake and McHenry counties.

Among the GOP judicial candidates, four candidates have captured the spirit of the direct election statute and the precepts supporting citizen selection of judges. They are conducting aggressive campaigns and we can recommend their nomination.

For the Supreme Court (2nd Judicial Dist. on the ballot as the John L. Nichols vacancy) our choice is S. Louis Rathje, now a justice through appointment. Rathje, experienced and eminently qualified, has received a number of endorsements. For good reason. He's demonstrated his ability and determination to uphold standards of the high court. He is opposed by two experienced judges, Bob Thomas, also known for his professional football exploits, and Bonnie Wheaton, a respected jurist in DuPage County. For an Appellate Court seat in a northern Illinois district (on the ballot as the S. Louis Rathje vacancy) we prefer John M. "Jack" O'Malley over Pat Rice.

More locally, Lake County Associate Judge Dave Hall is preferred over Atty. Claudia A. Hoogasian for the Jack Hoogasian vacancy. Besides his experience as an associate, Hall has garnered significant endorsements from members of the Lake County Bar Assn. Hall has been running a grassroots based campaign that shows he understands the essence of direct election. In a three-way race for another 19th Circuit seat (on the ballot as the James C. Franz seat) we recommend John E. Ridgway, who is known for his conservative principles and reputation as a hard-working attorney. He is opposed by Gordon E. Graham and Maureen P. McIntyre.

Next week we will discuss state legislative and Congressional races.

Generous mood will be tested

Lake County will be an excellent proving ground to test the theory being advanced by television and print pundits that the American taxpayer this election year has an open pocketbook and is only passingly interested in tax-cutting proposals advanced by candidates.

On primary election day Tuesday, March 21, an eye-popping 21 taxing districts in the county will be asking for voter approval to raise taxes for a variety of purposes, mostly schools and education. An astounding total of $115.1 million in general obligation bond proposals will be put before the Lake County electorate for consideration, all but $12 million for school purposes. A $59.9 million proposal for a second McHenry high school wasn't included in these figures because the district has only a comparatively handful of taxpayers residing in Lake County.

Without a doubt, growth pressures are spurring the calls for more money, particularly where schools are involved. But there also is a prevalent mood among elected officials that March 21 will be an excellent time to take advantage of good economic times.

A "Good Time Charley" mood is the underlying premise how national political observers explain why tax cutting proposals "fail to resonate" with electors. These same political observers are saying Americans are more interested in national deficit reduction and Social Security protection than cutting their tax bills. We shall see.

There's a good chance the famed pundits espousing the theory of a generous taxpayer mood aren't aware that Lake County already is, as we mentioned on this page several weeks ago, the highest per capita tax county in Illinois and third highest per capital county for school expenditures. As we noted at the outset, March 21 is going to be a good test how much farther taxpayers are willing to dig down.

VIEWPOINT

Little job attracts big ballot names

Big names in Lake County politics and some "fairly big" names will be on the March 21 primary election ballot for the smallest elected job there is, the lonely, lowly precinct committee captain.

Unheralded, unpaid, often unheeded, precinct committee persons are entrusted with the grunt work of politics. Ringing doorbells, handing out literature, setting up chairs, opening doors, holding coats for the candidates.

So what's Al Salvi, twice the Republican nominee for statewide office in the past four years, and Lauren Beth Gash, the Democrats' poster girl to capture one of the most coveted Congressional seats in the nation, doing running for a committee post?

Because Salvi and Gash understand the bedrock importance of the precinct captain's role in making the American system of party politics work and because it gives them a front row seat in grassroots politics, the area where elections are won or lost.

Salvi, a resident of rural Wauconda, is out to retain his committee post in Fremont Township. Gash, a state representative from Highland Park who wants to step up to Congress, is after a precinct seat in Moraine Township.

Two state senators, Republican Adeline Geo-Karis, and Democrat Terry Link, are running for reelection to committee posts in Zion and Vernon Township (Vernon Hills) respectively. A former state senator, David Barkhausen of Lake Forest, is out to keep a hand in GOP politics via the precinct route.

Five village mayors, Ralph Davis of Round Lake Beach, James Pappas of Fox Lake, Thomas Adams of Green Oaks, Marilyn Sindles of Mundelein and James Eschenbauch of Wauconda are on the spring ballot as precinct candidates. They just can't get enough politics!

A sizable contingent of Lake County Board members also are precinct committee persons. Included are Audrey H. Nixon, North Chicago; Larry Leafblad, Grayslake; Sandy Cole, Grayslake; Stevenson Mountsiner, Barrington; Robert Grever, Kildeer; Diana O'Kelley, rural Mundelein; Bonnie Thomson Carter, Ingleside; Suzi Schmidt, Lake Villa; Mary Beatie, Lake Forest; Pam Newton, Vernon Hills; David Stolman, Buffalo Grove; Carol Spielman, Highland Park; John Schulien, Libertyville; Carole Calabrese, Libertyville. In Lake County, board members are virtually full-time. They understand the value of keeping tabs on the pulse of electors at the grassroots. The extra political work also translates in to self-preservation.

Respect for the committeeman's role is the reason why John Matijevich of Waukegan, retired state representative and once a highly respected member of the House Democratic leadership, maintains his involvement as a precinct committeeman. Two other Democratic office holders, Recorder of Deed Mary Ellen Vanderwerker of Waukegan, and College of Lake County Trustee Millicent Berliant, West Deerfield Township, retain precinct seats. Bob Neal, former Illinois Tollway Authority trustee and GOP bigwig, likes being a precinct committeeman although he no longer is an elected official.

Even for a small political post, the precinct job offers both a fascination and a degree of power. If it didn't, no one would want the office.

Uncle Bobby aftermath

Tom Doddington, well-known Waukegan hotelier and avid pilot, still shivers at the thought of what might have happened on that fatal February afternoon when a plane piloted by famed radio personality Bob Collins collided with another plane near Zion.

"I turned down an invitation from Bob Collins to go flying that afternoon," Doddington related. "I told Bob I promised to help a friend install a new water heater."

Former U.S. Atty. Fred Foreman, a resident of Gurnee and a pallbearer at Collins' funeral, reportedly in the unusual position of being on retainer to acquire radar for Waukegan Airport, a technical advancement that might have prevented the Collins crash. The one-time federal prosecutor developed a friendship with Collins when Foreman was state's attorney of Lake County.

Error corrected

This column is indebted to Kirk J. Kekatos, a volunteer at Lake County Museum, for correcting an error when we mentioned several weeks ago the contributions of Lake County inventor Edward H. Amet in the development of the motion picture industry. Amet developed the first practical 35mm motion picture projector, not the movie camera as we stated. Amet's brother, Percy, may have created the first movie commercial, "The Harvesting of Wheat," when he filmed 20 Massey-Harris combines in action in Canada a century ago. Kekatos is a past president of the Chicago Photographic Collectors Society and a resident of Grayslake.

Interactive reader

Russ Fairchild was an "interactive" reader before the cyber era word was even invented. A retired Railway Express employee and resident of Antioch, Russ got the idea in 1991 of writing about his annual pre-Christmas stroll around town to extend holiday greetings to folks he encountered. Entitled "Strolling with Russ," the Yuletide feature in Fairchild's hometown Antioch News was an instant success, becoming so popular the article (stroll) had to be published in installments.

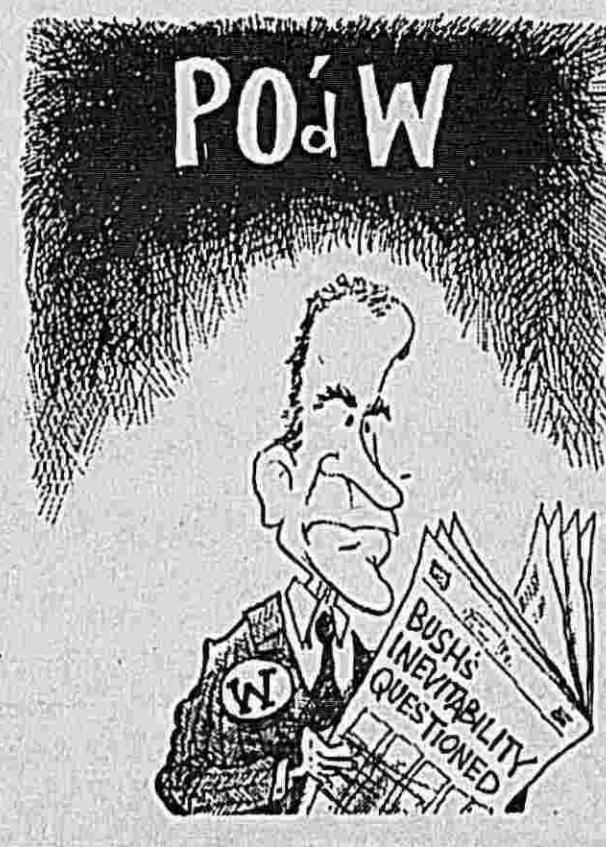

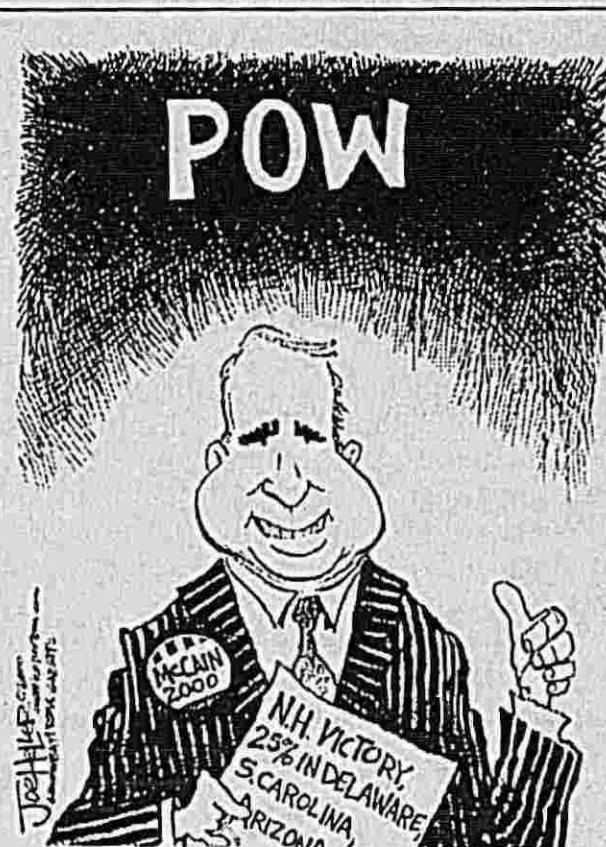

Last time published, the "stroll" article featured 250 names, all in a friendly, happy style. Russ loved to kibitz with the gals at the coffee shop. And they loved seeing their names in the paper. Hey, it was Christmas! At his wake last week, we heard that he had another stroll installment in progress when he took sick several years ago and was unable to complete his annual literary pilgrimage. Russ was comfortable in his declining years at Victory Lakes, Lindenhurst. He was no longer able to stroll, but he didn't lose his touch for good-natured banter until his final days. God bless Russ.

Helping Hillary

The irony of all political ironies is that new home buyers in Valley Lakes Subdivision off Rte. 134 in Republican west Lake County indirectly are contributing to Hillary Clinton's campaign in New York for the U.S. Senate. Penny Pritzker, developer through the family Penguin Corp., tossed a fund-raiser last Friday night in Chicago for Democrat swells. $2,000 per person. Co-hosts were Eleanor "Sis" Daley, dah mayor's mom, and her son, Bill, Dept. of Commerce secretary in the Clinton cabinet.

One man's family

Gramp has learned to steer clear in checkers competition with grandson John, 6. My first move, brought forth a sigh from John, "Grampa, that wasn't good." My third move prompted John to declare, "Grampa, you're all through." And I was. I know when I'm over-matched. Wonder how John is at horse shoes?

GOP candidates in 10th testing mini-messages

With crunch time approaching in the March 21 primary, Republicans bidding for a 10th Congressional District nomination are focusing on sound bite campaigning.

The 11 candidates out to succeed retiring North Shore Congressman John Porter tried out their mini-messages at a meeting of the Waukegan City Club, noted for free-wheeling political debate.

Pro-wrestler Jon Stewart pledged to be the Democrats' "worst nightmare" if elected. Mark Kirk, a former Porter aide, said his election would ensure experience for a representative "who'd know where the washroom is located." Millionaire businessman Andy Hochberg replied that he felt he was intelligent enough to find out himself.

That's the kind of meeting it was.

Drug counselor Scott Phelps, who also is a minister, spoke about his common sense and moral character in the allotted 25 seconds. Conservative tax attorney John Cox, pro-family and pro-life, said he offers the most clear-cut choice between liberal Democrat Lauren Beth Gash.

Banker-businessman Jim Goulka and Northbrook Mayor Mark Damisch said their business savvy would serve 10th District residents well in Washington, DC, to "get things done."

GOP hotbeds

On the basis of precinct committee candidates in the March 21 primary, Grant Township (Fox Lake-Ingleside) and Newport Township (Wadsworth) share the claim as Lake County's most Republican areas. Grant has all GOP voting areas covered, including four contests, and Newport, smallest in population, has all of its three precincts "covered" with three contests. Other banner GOP areas include Libertyville Township with 37 out of 41 precincts covered and Warren (Gurnee, Wildwood, Gages Lake) with 36 of 40 covered. Most Democratic part of Lake County is Moraine Township (Highland Park) where there will be 18 committee candidates in 32 precincts.

Cox backer

Atty. John Cox, running for a Republican nomination for Congress from the 10th District, is looking upon the personal endorsement of Gilda Torres as a strong sign that he has connected with the Hispanic community in Waukegan. Torres, who is GOP chair for Waukegan Township, spoke out in favor of Cox, a conservative, on her own. Waukegan Township precinct committee-persons did not endorse.

Morton appealing

Robert Morton, the "mystery" candidate for a judicial seat, has taken an appeal to the State Board of Elections for being disapproved for the March 21 primary ballot. Morton, reportedly an Antioch area resident, is seeking a legal solution in Sagamon County (Springfield) where the elections body convenes.

Still searching

Republican officials are advising party faithful to reserve Friday, April 28, for the annual Lake County Republican Federation annual spring dinner although they still are searching for a headline speaker. The big fund raising event is booked again for the Lincolnshire Marriott.

Important menu

Food usually isn't important for political shindigs. An exception is the annual corned beef and cabbage sit down dinner sponsored by the Wauconda Township Republican Club. The dinner at $17.50 per ticket is being moved this year from the American Legion Hall to the new Mill Creek Banquet Hall, 333 Mill St., Wauconda for the Saturday, March 18 event.

Who was our worst president?

Remember the 1970s television sitcom, "Welcome Back, Kotter"? Comedian Gabe Kaplan portrayed Kotter, a Brooklyn teacher who returned to the inner-city high school from which he had graduated 10 years earlier. His job was to teach a remedial academics group called the "sweathogs," including Vinnie Barbarino played by a young, up-and-coming actor named John Travolta.

A good trivia question: "What was the name of their school?"

The answer: "James Buchanan High."

And that was part of the joke, an educational institution named after a president who was considered a failure. It's as if in upcoming years folks named a convent after Bill Clinton.

Just last week a survey of 58 historians ranked Buchanan dead last among our 41 presidents. The top five, according to the historians, were Abraham Lincoln, Franklin D. Roosevelt, George Washington, Theodore Roosevelt and Harry Truman.

Bill Clinton was ranked 21st, by the way, a notch below his predecessor, George Bush. And in the category of "moral authority" Clinton, the Oval Office Casanova, was ranked 41st.

Buchanan was our 15th president, from 1857 to 1861, elected to office after 40 years of public service, including congressman, senator and secretary of state. Actually, he was known for his wide learning and brilliant oratory.

Divided over the issue of slavery, the nation was headed toward civil war and Buchanan could not avert it. He believed slavery was morally wrong but also believed the federal government had the obligation to protect it in the states where it already existed.

Buchanan also believed in the Union and sought to prevent secession through a policy of compromise and conciliation. He failed, and his term in office was followed by the tragic and bloody "War Between the States."

Buchanan has been criticized ever since for not taking a more active stand against secession. His vacillating course succeeded in delaying war and leaving decisions up to his successor, Lincoln.

Lincoln became president in 1861 and the war broke out in April. As it dragged on, the nation sought a scapegoat and found one in Buchanan.

Some recent scholars, however, have recognized that Buchanan devoted all of his talent to averting the catastrophe and that no other policy gave better promise of a peaceful settlement.

Places named after Lincoln and Washington are everywhere in our nation. In Buchanan's home state, Pennsylvania, there are no municipalities named after him and nobody is celebrating his April 23 birthday.

Our nation has 26 cities, towns or villages named Clinton, including ones in Illinois and all of its neighbors: Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana and Michigan.

But those 26 hometowns are the namesakes of De Witt Clinton, who aided in the development of the Middle West by pushing for the building of the Erie Canal. He was the governor of New York in 1825 when it was completed.

It isn't likely any towns, schools or Little League ballparks will rush to adopt the name Clinton after our current president retires. Maybe it's more likely his wife might someday merit such an honor.

Hillary, New York?

Safe Neighborhoods Act— The legislature messed up

You have read and seen much about the legislative fiasco that revolved around the court decision that ruled unconstitutional the Safe Neighborhoods Act that was adopted five years ago. The legislature tried in special sessions called by Governor George Ryan to re-enact the law, but the efforts were futile primarily because of the obstinacy of Senate President James 'Pate' Philip.

The main stumbling block to agreement was whether a provision that carrying a concealed weapon, even on a first offense, should be a felony. I happen to believe that we must treat the unlawful possession of deadly weapons as seriously as possible, but this column isn't going to get into that. Instead, I am going to stress why the legislature got into the mess in the first place.

There is a provision in the legislature article of the Illinois Constitution that has been in our charter since 1870, and it has been there as a protection for the public. The section states that bills shall be confined to a "single subject." The "single subject rule" means that the legislature cannot lump many unrelated subjects into one piece of legislation.

The Safe Neighborhoods Act was incorporated into one bill that affected 60 statutes and those who argue that it should have withstood the constitutional challenge say that it was all under "the umbrella of the subject of crime." I believe that their argument is a "stretch." The intent of the constitution is that all bills "stand on their own merits," and lumping many issues into one bill robs the public of the deliberation to be heard on every issue.

SEEING IT THROUGH

Believe me, this matter of "bundling" many bills and rolling them into one is very serious and has been done more often than you can imagine. You can guess why the "special interests" or the legislative leadership goes along with such a procedure.

Let's say that you have a bill that is "politically perfect;" in other words, it's "Ma and apple pie," and all legislators want to be on record as voting for it. They then throw in a "kicker" that might be controversial or intended to assist some special interest. Legislators are "between a rock and a hard place," so they usually vote for the "bundle," because of the "niceties" in the bill and in the hopes that attention isn't drawn to the "mush" that was put into the bill.

In my mind, the "Safe Neighborhoods Act" was of such importance that the legislature should not have even toyed with the idea of bundling it with other issues, even if those issues were remotely related to the subject of crime. So, the legislature has itself to blame for the mess that caused them to return to special sessions and waste more time and effort, and unsuccessfully, to try to correct their own mistake. In other words, if they followed the state constitution and did it right the first time, we would never have had to be frustrated with the "Ryan-Philip brouhaha."

Why do I believe that discussion of the legislature's penchant for violating the constitution's single subject rule deserves this much attention in a column? First, because such abuse can do a lot of damage to the public good.

But, the main reason is that I read that a Chicago lawmaker intends to introduce an amendment to the constitution to change the "one subject provision." He claims his intent is to clarify the present provision. To me, it's scary.

When we have a provision in our constitution and it protects us citizens, let's "leave it alone." The public needs all the protection that it can get.

I have a better idea for that lawmaker, and the rest. Follow the constitution. In the past, many of us warned that the abuse of the "single subject rule," will "come back to bite us."

One legislator used to say, "we too often legislate in haste, and then we must repent in leisure." I heard a lot of rhetoric on both sides in the "gun debate." It will all go back on track and I'm sure they'll "do it right" the next time.

Don't let them try to change the "single subject rule," though. In the way that laws are enacted, it is more important to you than the gun debate. The gun law is only one law. The single subject provision of the constitution is there to protect you on every law that is passed.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mark Damisch is right for 10th District

I am sitting in my home, on this gray February afternoon, thinking about which Republican candidate would best represent the constituents of 10th District in the US Congress, Mark Damisch or Mark Kirk. As a 20-year resident of Northbrook, I am considering not only their positions on the issues, but also their credibility and track record.

Mark Damisch is a 43 resident of the 10th District, having grown up here, graduated college and law school from Northwestern University and is raising a family in Northbrook. As the twice-elected Northbrook Village President, Mark Damisch has successfully built a coalition between the residents and businesses to promote low taxes, economic growth, a nationally ranked school system and policies to promote improvement in the environment. While doing this, he has never lost the "human" touch he has developed with his constituents. If anyone is sensitive and knowledgeable about the issues of the 10th District, it is Mark Damisch.

On the other hand, Mark Kirk, temporarily of Kenilworth, has only recently moved back into his mother's house after more than 20 years of living and working in Washington DC and London. Mark Kirk has never held an elective office and could not be more than superficially in touch with local issues having not worked for John Porter or the 10th District for almost 10 years.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

You are what you've chosen to be

As I grow older, some of life's greatest lessons become more meaningful. Some former mysteries I now understand and what I could not see is now clear to me.

One of those lessons is that all decisions have consequences. I am who I am because of the decisions I've made every day of my life. I am where I am because of the paths I've chosen when faced with options. My life—good or bad—is the direct result of choices I've made.

The hardened criminal wasn't born that way. The drug addict never believed getting high would lead to destruction. No alcoholic ever became one without taking that first drink. Yet all are victims of bad decisions.

Bad decisions ultimately have bad consequences. Good decisions usually lead to positive results. As surely as lying, cheating, and stealing will lead you to prison, honesty, hard work and positive attitudes will lead to success.

We've all made bad decisions. Most of us live to have another chance. However, there are those unfortunate few who make one wrong turn and never recover from that mistake.

Joey (not his real name) was one of the unlucky ones. He had two goals in life when he reached his 16th birthday. The first was to get his driver's license. The second was to get very drunk. Three days after his birthday he accomplished both of his goals.

Joey almost got lucky. He nearly beat the train. In fact, the engineer told reporters that if Joey had been just a half-second quicker his car would have cleared the crossing.

One decision, a half-second error in judgement and no second chance. The community mourned Joey's death. They also mourned the deaths of the three other teenagers Joey took to the grave with him. Joey's one bad decision carried eternal consequences.

For most of us—the fortunate ones—decision making is an ongoing process. We will have many opportunities to redirect our course. We change our ultimate destiny one day at a time with the decisions we make each day.

Here are ways you can improve your decision making.

- If it's right, do it with all your heart. If it's wrong, leave it undone. If you're not sure whether it's right or wrong, leave it undone.

- Remember that seemingly unimportant results. There is an old adage that says, "Decide in haste, repent in leisure." Don't let peer pressure or time constraints force you into an uncomfortable decision.

- Good plans lead to good decisions. Proverbs 21:5 says, "The plans of the diligent lead only to plenty..." When you have a plan, you can easily make decisions that will bring the results you desire from your plan.

- Consider others when you make decisions. Most decisions we make do impact the lives of those around us. Take time to consider fairness and courtesy issues before you choose a course of action.

- Think beyond today. Ask yourself if this decision is in your best interest in the long term. All too often, "feels-good-now" deci-

OMC's owners invest $65 million

Money infused in support of turnaround, growth plans

The owners of OMC, including investment affiliates of Soros Fund Management LLC Greenway Partners and certain members of senior management, have invested $65 million of equity in the Company to fund capital expenditures and other general corporate expenditures.

This investment comes as OMC proceeds through a restructuring of its operations and prepares for comeback growth in 2000.

The owners said the investment also testifies to their confidence in OMC's growth strategies.

"Our owners and I continue to believe that with the successful reintroduction of FICHT(R) Ram Injection(TM) the Company is poised for unprecedented growth in the years to come," said David Jones, OMC Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer. "This commitment should not be surprising to our dealers, given that our equity sponsors have supported the company through some very difficult times over the last two and one-half years."

'We have endured much since the acquisition to get us to this point. We couldn't have weathered the storm without the strong support of our investors'

David Jones

Concurrent with this capital infusion, OMC amended and restated its $150 million revolving credit facility to increase the borrowing base available to support the company's working capital needs.

OMC enters 2000 with a strong marine products portfolio of high-quality, leading-edge boat and engine brands. The Company also has expanded its Evinrude(R) outboards with FICHT Ram Injection line to offer more direct fuel injected outboards than any other marine engine manufacturer.

"We have endured much since the acquisition to get us to this point," said Jones. "We couldn't have weathered the storm without the strong support of our investors. However, we also are extremely grateful to our dealers, who have remained loyal to OMC during this turnaround period. Thanks to you, this Company will regain its former position as the industry leader."

Outboard Marine Corporation manufactures and markets internationally-known boat brands, including Chris-Craft(R), Four Winns(R), Seaswirl(R), Javelin(R), Stratos(R), Lowe(R), Hydra-Sports(R), and Princecraft(R); marine accessories and marine engines, under the brand names of Johnson(R) and Evinrude(R); and FICHT(R) Ram Injection(TM) - the world's premier low-emission two-stroke outboard engine technology.

The company also announced two alliances with other firms.

OMC and catalog retailer Cabela's have formed a new marketing partnership that is expected to increase demand for OMC's outboard motors and attract more people to the boating lifestyle.

Under terms of this agreement, Cabela's, the nation's largest catalog retailer of outdoor gear and sporting equipment, will prominently display OMC's Evinrude(R) and Johnson(R) outboards in major catalogs along with a toll-free number boaters can call to locate their nearest dealer. This partnership allows OMC to market its products in an exciting new way to millions of prospective

Managers return to Lakeland

Two experienced newspaper professionals have returned to Lakeland Newspapers in managerial positions.

Publisher William H. Schroeder announced that David Sherman is the new retail advertising manager and Josephine 'Jo' Davis has taken over as manager of the accounting department.

"Lakeland Newspapers is taking a big step forward with two new managers who not only know their chosen fields, but also know the Lakeland community," stated Schroeder.

Davis, whose background includes financial management in the manufacturing and service sectors, was Lakeland's accounting manager before relocating to the southern suburbs several years ago.

Sherman, a native Lake County resident who grew up in the Round Lake area, was a senior account executive with Pioneer Press newspapers before rejoining the Lake County news weekly group that also publishes the Market Journal, a county-wide shopper newspaper; the Great Lakes Bulletin, and Suburban Family, a monthly magazine for parents circulated throughout Lake and McHenry counties.

Davis is a graduate of Daley College in Chicago. She worked for a distribution center for more than 16 years as accountant and general manager. She first joined Lakeland Newspapers in 1991. She left in 1996 to take a position with PPS Business Corp., a sorter of mail, in Bedford Park.

customers. It is expected to generate more consumer inquiries for Johnson and Evinrude outboards to both Cabela's and current OMC dealerships.

Cabela's catalog and retail store outlets will be designated Evinrude and Johnson dealerships. Outboards offered by Cabela's through this agreement include portable Evinrude outboards to 15-hp and Johnson outboards to 35-hp.

"This cross-promotional agreement is a win, win, win for OMC and its dealer network, Cabela's, and our boaters," said Rand McNally, Senior Vice-President of OMC's North American Engine Operations. "Cabela's enter the boating business with the world's most respected outboard brands and millions of new prospects will be presented with an exciting new opportunity to enter the boating world."

McNally concluded: "We expect this agreement to increase sales both through Cabela's and our existing dealership network."

"We are excited about this new opportunity to promote boating as part of our product mix," said Troy Bosard, marine products merchandiser for Cabela's. "The Cabela's customer is a sophisticated fisherman, boater and hunter who has learned to depend on us to provide the most reliable equipment at a fair price."

Each Cabela's catalog presenting Evinrude and Johnson outboards will list a toll-free number that boaters can call for the name of their nearest dealer. Cabela's customers also may purchase motors directly from Cabela's.

To provide customers with added convenient service, Cabela's will establish OMC-certified service centers near the company's Sydney, Nebraska, headquarters and each participating Cabela's retail outlet.

While many boaters are expected to purchase motors directly from the catalog, retailers in all categories of sporting equipment have realized that prospective buyers often are prompted by catalogs to visit a local retailer. Usually, these dealership visits result in incremental sales that would not otherwise have occurred.

Attorneys awarded $175 million by court

A battle fought in part by two giant Lake County employers has produced a winner: the attorneys.

An unprecedented $175 million has been awarded to attorneys representing plaintiffs in a class action suit involving retail pharmacies that claimed price fixing against pharmaceutical manufacturers and wholesalers. Judge Charles P. Kocoras of the U.S. District Court for the Northern Illinois District announced the ruling.

A total of 31 companies were named as defendants including Abbott Laboratories, Glaxo Wellcome Inc., and Warner Lambert. Settlements amounting to $700 million were agreed to by 19 manufacturers over the last five years.

A broad scope of retail pharmacies participated in the suit, including major chains such as Walgreens and WalMart, as well as small, independently owned drug stores.

More than 60 law firms served as counsel for the plaintiffs, including Chicago-based Much Shelist Freed Denenberg Ament & Rubenstein, P.C., where partner Michael Freed served as co-lead counsel.

Improve your eating and exercise habits during March, National Nutrition month

The Lake County Health Department and Community Health Center joins the American Dietetic Association in celebration of National Nutrition this March. This year, the theme is "Food and Fitness: Health for a Lifetime." It is designed to focus attention on the importance of making informed food choices and developing sound eating and physical activity habits.

These two key messages are for everyone. Healthful eating fuels physical activities at every stage of life. It doesn't matter what age you are. The sooner you start healthful eating and regular physical activity, the better your health will be. We understand that food and physical activities that you enjoy and that are right for you.

One definition of being fit is choosing healthy foods and maintaining regular physical activity. There are many benefits of being fit, you: improve your mood, reduce stress, and increase your energy; reduce your risk for heart disease, cancer and diabetes, can look and feel your best; and have the physical strength and endurance to do the things you want to do.

Nutrition and physical activity are key components of a healthy lifestyle. The Health Department challenges you to take responsibility for your food and physical activity habits. Take a closer look at your food decisions and think about your eating patterns. Answer the questions and then add the values to score yourself.

Do you...

1. Consider nutrition when making food choices?
2. Eat at least three meals daily?
3. Choose healthful snacks?
4. Eat a variety of foods?
5. Eat at least six servings of grain products daily?
6. Eat at least three servings of veggies daily?
7. Eat at least two servings of fruit daily?
8. Eat at least two servings of milk, yogurt, or cheese daily?
9. Eat two servings of meat, fish, poultry, eggs, beans, or nuts daily?
10. Go easy on higher fat foods?
11. Go easy on sweets?
12. Drink eight or more cups of fluids daily?

If you scored:

19-24 points: Healthful eating seems to be your habit already. Still, look for ways to stick to a healthful eating plan to make a "good thing" even better.

11-18 points: You're on track. A few easy changes could help you make your total eating plan healthier.

4-10 points: Sometimes you eat smart, but not often enough to be at your "fitness best." What might be your first steps to healthier eating? Ask a registered dietitian to help.

0-3 points: For your good health, you're wise to rethink your overall eating style. Take it gradually, step by step. And be sure to get the help and support you need from a registered dietitian.

Whatever your score, make moves toward healthful eating. Gradually turn your "nevers" into "sometimes" into "Usually". If you need further assistance, with a doctor's order you may schedule an appointment with the registered dietitian at the Lake County Health Department. Call 360-6753.

New health system formed in Waukegan

The boards of directors of Victory Health Services and Provena Health announced the formation of a new joint operating company to manage the operations and assets of Victory Memorial Hospital and Provena Saint Therese Medical Center and their offsite healthcare facilities.

Final documents to create the Catholic, non-profit organization were signed and became effective this week. The agreement created the largest healthcare provider in Lake County, with combined admissions of 18,480 and assets of over $111 million for the year ending in 1999. The boards also announced the appointment of a board of directors to govern the new system, which has not yet been named. The board has named Tim Harrington as chief executive officer (CEO) of the consolidated operation. The new board of directors will have 13 members, with Victory Health Services and Provena Health each appointing six members.

The Provena Health at-large appointees are: James Zegar, chief operating officer, Coral Chemical Company; Richard Adloff, senior vice president, finance, Allegiance, Inc. Corporation; Thomas Adams, senior vice president, Trustmark Insurance Corporation; Gerald Pearson, formal chief executive officer of Provena Health; and Gerard Goshgarian, MD, local orthopedic surgeon. Additionally, Jack Barto, president of Provena Hospitals, the subsidiary that oversees operations for its six other Illinois hospitals, will serve as an ex-officio member.

The Victory Health Services at-large appointees include: Robert Churchill, Lake Villa, an attorney; Gust Petropoulos, Gurnee, deputy assessor for Benton Township; Cliff Van Dyke, Waukegan, director of human resources for West Suburban Hospital, Oak Park; Thomas Freyman of Libertyville, vice president and controller, Hospital Products Division, Abbott Laboratories; and Richard Furman, MD, general surgeon. In addition, John Clennon, chairman, Victory Health Services, was named as an ex-officio member.

The two boards also announced that Pearson would serve as the new board's first chairman.

In announcing Harrington's appointment as CEO, Barto and Clennon issued the following statement:

"We are confident that Mr. Harrington has the leadership skills and abilities to continue the very important task of not only integrating the operations of both organizations, but also expanding needed services and programs to assure that our communities have access to cost-effective and quality health care."

Both men pledged the support of their organizations to the success of the innovative joint venture between the two Waukegan hospitals. Barto added that Provena Health will work with the Waukegan hospitals in a number of areas where there is mutual benefit, initially focusing on information services and managed care contracting.

Clennon noted the complexities of healthcare financing and delivery today were "overwhelming" and the Victory-Provena joint operating agreement was an effort to assure a strong health care system serving north Lake County. Barto concurred noting that the federal Balanced Budget Act is scheduled to reduce Medicare reimbursements to both hospitals by over $25 million during its five years of progressive cuts.

"Partnering with Victory will help to assure a continued Catholic presence in health care in Lake County," Barto said.

In a related action, Harrington announced a series of initial appointments. He named Timothy Selz as president of the two hospitals, James McNichols as vice president and chief financial officer of the new corporation, and Al Mansfield as vice president of finance. He also appointed Larry Stanley as vice president of planning and marketing and Janna Peters as chief information officer. Sue Geiger was appointed as vice president of human resources, and Lora Johnas was named corporate counsel and risk manager.

Selz is currently the president and chief executive officer of Provena Saint Therese Medical Center where Mansfield is chief financial officer and Stanley directs the planning and marketing effort. Peters is the chief information officer and Geiger is the current human resources executive for Victory Health Services. Johnas is the current corporate counsel and risk manager for Victory.

Tips for preventing heart failure

Heart disease is the number one cause of death in Lake County. The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center urges Lake County residents to protect themselves against this disease. Following are some tips for decreasing the risk of heart disease and stroke:

•Don't smoke. Research indicates that smoking increases the risk of stroke by 50 percent. You also are at greater risk if you live or work around people who smoke tobacco every day.

•Eat foods that are low in saturated fat, cholesterol and calories.

•Be physically active every day. Try to get 30 minutes of physical activity three times a week to stay healthy.

•Maintain a healthy weight. You are greater risk if you are 20 pounds or more overweight.

•Get checked for blood pressure and diabetes.

sure and diabetes.

•Know the warning signs of a heart attack: neck and jaw pain, uncomfortable pressure, fullness, and squeezing or pain in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes. Pain that spreads to the shoulders, neck or arms. Chest discomfort with lightheadedness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath.

•Call 911 immediately if any warning signs occur.

•Learn CPR. For locations near you, call 1-877-AHA-4CPR.

Each year, 400,000 Americans are diagnosed with heart failure. Heart failure is the number 1 cause of hospital admission for seniors over 65 years of age. The Heart Failure Society of America is launching a nationwide effort to build awareness of the disease. For more information, contact Leslie Piotrowski at 360-6779.

Teddy Bear clinic eases anxiety for children's doctor visits

On Saturday, March 4, from 1 to 4 p.m. in Lake Forest Hospital's Patient Services and Health Education Center, children are invited to bring in their favorite teddy bear or doll for a thorough "check-up." Lake Forest Hospital staff explain what to expect during a physical exam while children see, feel and use some common exam room equipment or take an imaginary stroll through the operating room.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for children to become familiar and comfortable in a medical setting and to understand the roles of clinicians," said Sharon Hopkins, RN, Lake Forest Hospital Community Health Nurse. "Lake Forest Hospital is working closely with the community to incorporate other child safety issues into the Teddy Bear Clinic."

Teachers from Dearhaven Child Care and Learning Center will dress up as clinicians and role play with children to explain the procedure when a child visits a doctor.

Representatives from the Lake Forest Police Department and the Lake Forest Fire Department talk about other child safety and fire safety issues, and teach children how and when to dial 911. In addition, a pediatric dentist will be on hand to interact with the kids.

Other discussion topics include nutritional snacks and kitchen safety.

Lake Forest Hospital's Teddy Bear Clinic is open to the public and free of charge. For additional information, contact Lake Forest Hospital Community Education at 535-6112.

Behavior problems at epidemic proportions

This will be part of a several-week series on what causes bad behavior to be in such large proportions.

More info on the behavior problem epidemic:

Please understand before you read further that when I speak of punishment, I do not refer to abusive punishment. I just mean appropriate punishment that means something to the child and effects the child.

Mistaken responses to children's stages or "phases."

Yes, kids do go through stages and phases in their lives, but don't fool yourself! Saying that bad behavior is just part of a stage the child is going through does not mean the behavior will go away. In fact, this is also somewhat of a denial response. Stages and phases are important for one reason and one reason only. How they are graduated. What is done to teach the right thing at each stage. Usually, in our society, we say it's just a stage the child is going through and then do our talking and feeling and coddling thing until the bad behavior in that stage becomes permanent. Regardless of stage, bad behavior, disrespectful behavior, nasty behavior needs to be dealt with immediately and strongly so that it does not keep getting repeated! If we keep sticking to this "stage and phase mentality," our kids will suffer needlessly in their lives.

Misconceptions about what makes behavior better.

It's not hard to make bad behavior better. In fact, I'll go as far as saying it is easy. It also doesn't take that long. Even with entrenched bad behavior. Of course, the earlier

PARENT'S PLACE

er you start changing it, the easier it is to stop.

I believe that most people have a fear of what they think it takes to stop the bad behavior and so they try to ignore it and try to say it's a stage and then when it is completely absorbing their lives, finally break and get help, feeling like roadkill. They take it on in a defensive way as opposed to an offensive way. They wait and react as opposed to observe and proactively stop the problem early.

The hard fact, I believe, is that most people would rather have a root canal than admit needing counseling help. This happens because people mistakenly believe that therapy or counseling is for "weak" people and for people who don't know how to do things right. They also think that therapy has to take a really long time and when a therapist gets you in his or her "clutches" you can never be free of it. At least in my office, all of these misconceptions are completely wrong! I can't speak for other counselors or therapists because I am not them. However, I will say that therapy should be a short as possible, creating as much independence of the people seeking it as possible. It should teach permanent and useful ideas that get immediate change. It should create permanent change that does not require long amounts of time.

In my office, bad behavior is completely turned around within three weeks, period. Parents are empowered to do the right kind of discipline that will create a child who can think for himself and know cause and effect and right and wrong. A child who can think ahead and make the right decisions. These things are imperative in this very dangerous world we live in. Ignoring does not work. Diverting teaches nothing new. Denying the problem just makes it bigger. Being on the defensive and reacting after the fact is disempowering. Knowing the right thing to do ahead of time, being ready and being on the offensive is empowering and helps to soothe the relationships between parents and children. Best of all, if you get the right help early and are doing the right things consistently, your child's self-esteem will be very healthy.

Over importance and overindulgence. There is no better example of this than the recent story in the news about the average weekly allowance children are getting. I almost fell out of my chair when I heard that the average allowance these days is between $50 and $75 a week. It isn't any wonder to me why so many kids I see today feel more important than anyone else they come into contact with.

There is something to be said for having a healthy self-esteem. Unfortunately in our society, while we were in search of creating that healthy self-esteem for our kids, we mistakenly pumped them so full of themselves that now many of them feel more important than anyone else around them, including adults. This fuels disrespect and bad behavior.

Overindulgence is not healthy. Kids feeling like they are more important than their parents, teachers and friends is a recipe for failure and loneliness. All kids should be made to feel like they are a part of a team. A part. Not the whole. Not the thing that the family revolves around. The team is the family and each person is as important as each other person.

Additionally, for their kids' sake, parents need to occupy a position above their kids. They cannot cow-tow or bow down to the desires of their kids unless they want their kids to feel that they can dominate anyone out there. Domination does not bring strength. Knowledge of reasonable self-worth does. Many kids I see today are so puffed up and so full of themselves. I get amazed because many adults will have a concern about the same puffed up child because of tantrums. They automatically believe that the tantrums are about anger or sadness or emotional displacement. When you look closely, you see that they are normal tantrums that come when someone who has been puffed up and given everything has a frustrated need. If you have been trained to believe the world owes you and it doesn't give to you, you have a tantrum. Especially if that is what you have done all your life.

You love your child, so do me a favor, and make sure that he or she feels good about him or herself based on doing the right thing and being part of that team. If you try to make the child feel good about him or herself regardless of his or her behavior, you are cheating your child and making him or her believe that the rest of the world will do the same. It just is not the case! Overindulgence spoils good kids and makes their futures tentative!

Be sure to read next week's column for more information on the epidemic of behavior problems.

Note: I got a great call from a teacher at Grayslake High School who mentioned some things that I want to make into a whole column. This column will be printed within the next several weeks and I need calls from teachers. His call regarded the threat of lawsuits against teachers when they try to discipline kids. I have also seen a lot of this and feel that it really takes away the teacher's ability to maintain an orderly classroom. I would love to hear from more teachers about their experiences with being held more responsible than the child, when trying to use any kind of appropriate discipline. Many teachers have gotten a raw deal and have really gotten caught in the middle of bad policy and parents who are unwilling to see their own child's misbehavior and the horrible implications that exist for the child who is repeatedly gotten out of his own consequences.

Thin bones break... in men and women

By LUIS I. SALAZAR
and WILLIAM A. MARTINEZ

A broken bone in grandfather is usually a bigger deal than in his grandson. According to the National Osteoporosis Foundation osteoporosis contributes or is directly responsible for 1.5 million fractures a year.

Over 28 million Americans have or are at risk of developing osteoporosis. Eighty percent of these are women. That still leaves 20 percent of men. Osteoporosis is that disease in which "porous" bones have become fragile and can fracture easily. Often, there are no symptoms until the bone actually breaks.

The most commonly effected bones are in the spine, the hip and the wrist. Hip fractures are 2-3 times more common in women, but the mortality associated with them is twice as high for men as for women. So osteoporosis is not just a female medical matter! Regrettably, up to 24 percent of hip fracture patients over 50 years of age die in the year following their fracture. Twenty five percent of patients who were ambulatory before a hip fracture require long-term care in a nursing home or by some other means. The associated stress to the patient and family members is tremendous. You can prevent and detect osteoporosis.

Eat a diet high in calcium and vitamin D. Vitamin D is necessary for the absorption of calcium. Daily calcium intake should be between 1000-1500mg depending on age. 400 IU-800 IU is the recommended daily allowance of vitamin D. Dairy products are the best source of calcium. If you do not get enough dietary calcium or have trouble digesting milk products supplements can be used. Direct sunlight exposure, fortified dairy products, egg yolks, fish, and liver are all great sources of Vitamin D.

Aging, inactivity, low calcium intake, the loss of estrogen with menopause and certain medications can all cause bone loss. Women have less bone as young adults than men and the loss of estrogen with menopause increases this bone loss. Excessive alcohol, cola and coffee beverages and cigarette smoking all contribute to osteoporosis. Having a thin, small frame, advancing age above average height, early menopause and certain medications all enhance osteoporosis. Steroid medications sometimes used to treat asthma and arthritis as well as certain anti-seizure medications may add to osteoporosis as well. Do not stop taking medication without consulting your doctor.

In osteoporosis more bone is broken down than rebuilt. This cycle of buildup and breakdown is ongoing. A sedentary lifestyle contributes to osteoporosis. Do weight-bearing exercise at least four times per week. Activities such as walking, hiking, stair climbing, jogging, and aerobic dancing or weight training are most favorable. Many experts recommend you work up to 20 minutes at least 4 times per week.

Your doctor may recommend a simple x-ray type test called a DEXA scan. This scan is now considered to be state of the art when compared to the many other types of tests that have been available to measure bone mineral density (BMD) to detect bone loss. The scan is painless, noninvasive and performed in just a few minutes at most area hospitals.

You may wish to ask your doctor about medications to reduce bone loss. FDA approved medications for the prevention and/or treatment of osteoporosis are estrogen replacement therapy or hormone replacement therapy (ERT/HRT) alendronate, calcitonin, and raloxifene. Most of these drugs and others are investigational for men. Once you've reviewed your risk factors and appropriate test results with your physician, discuss if medication is appropriate and which would best suit you.

Tips for getting a good night's rest

Having trouble sleeping? You are not alone — more than 70 million Americans suffer from some sort of sleep disorder, and as we get older, precious sound sleep is something we experience less and less.

However, sleep experts offer some tips on getting the much deserved sleep that you have been craving. The first and most simple tip they offer is make sure the bed you're sleeping on is comfortable. Although they don't necessarily have an expiration date, beds do have a certain shelf life. After all, you don't wear the same clothes you wore 20 years ago, why should you sleep in the same bed?

Another tip sleep experts offer is to avoid caffeine. It may seem too obvious, but, as people grow older, they become more susceptible to the effects of caffeine.

You may have been able to drink coffee late in the evening when you were in your 20s, but you probably can't now. In fact, some experts suggest you stop drinking caffeine products after 2 p.m.

Setting the right mood for sleep is also important. One way to do that is to keep the temperature low and the room dark. Experts advise you to use the bedroom for its original purpose — don't eat in bed and/or watch television.

And if you like to read in bed, limit your reading material to books or magazines. Newspapers are often associated with beginning the day.

If all your efforts don't work, you may want to consider using sleeping aids. But before you break out the pills, consider another method first. Aromatherapy has been used for centuries to help alleviate stress and boost energy, and it can also be used to improve sleep. The combination of certain essential oils can help relax your senses and enhance sleep.

Hideaway Spa, a unique aromatic therapy diffuser that is pediatrician approved, created an AromaPad specifically for sleep that combines the soothing herbal and fruit essences of Mandarin oranges, nutmeg and jasmine.

The VaporSpa's uniqueness can be found in its design. Unlike most aromatherapy diffusers, which are nothing more than humidifiers, VaporSpa doesn't use water, making it completely compact, portable and easy to clean.

Sheridan Health Care Center hosts Alzheimer's seminars

How does Alzheimer's Disease affect the person as a whole? That was the question presented to Dr. Martin Gorbien at a seminar hosted by Sheridan Health Care Center in Zion on February 15.

Dr. Gorbien is currently the Director of the Section of Geriatric Medicine and Associate Professor of Internal Medicine at Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago.

Alzheimer's is very hard to predict. The signs and symptoms may vary from person to person, stated Dr. Gorbien. Symptoms can include gradual memory loss, disorientation, loss of language skills, and impaired judgement and decision making skills. Dr. Gorbien also stated that there is a tremendous amount of stress, not only for the person with Alzheimer's Disease, but for the families as well.

There are a number of support groups available in the Lake County area. Sheridan offers a monthly seminar for the community regarding Alzheimer's at no charge. These seminars are held every third Tuesday of the month, from 7-8:30 p.m. Information for these seminars may be obtained by calling the facility at 746-8435.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,
Q: I worked for (name withheld), for the last 4 months and was let go because I had a disagreement with my supervisor. I was approached by 2 security guards and taken out of the building, where I was told to leave the property and not to return. It was not until after I left that I remembered that I left some of my personal belongings in my desk. I called the company 4 times now and left messages for someone to call me and I will pick up my things. No one has returned my calls. It has been over a week now. The company also owes me my last paycheck which I am also expecting some vacation pay. Can you find out for me why they are not returning my calls and where the check is or offer me a suggestion of what I should do. Thank you. M.W.-Mundelein
A: After speaking with the Director of Human Resources, it became apparent why the company chose not to have direct contact with you. Evidently, the reason for your dismissal was a bit understated by you. The "disagreement" as you labeled it, with your supervisor, I am told, turned hostile and sent employees leaving the area. They had mentioned that a registered letter would be sent to you which would contain your final paycheck. The reason I am told that you have not received it as yet, is because the company only pays twice a month as it always has during your employment. The company found the fact that you are expecting "vacation pay" amusing. They asked to refer you to your company handbook which I am told clearly states you need to be with the company six months to earn vacation pay, for which you were not. As for your personal belongings, according to the security guards who escorted you out, you were given a card to read and sign that asked if you had any personal belongings to take with you. You answered "no". You were also asked for your key card, which you returned and also acknowledged on the card. Technically, the company gave you the opportunity to check and see. I am told the letter you will receive from the company will not only contain your final paycheck, but should also contain information advising no contact. If there was personal property of yours left behind that was of any value, it didn't belong there to begin with.

VOTE

February 2000

Dear Lake County Voter:

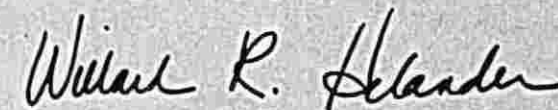

We are pleased to provide this Voter Information Guide which lists all the candidates and referenda for the March 21, 2000 General Primary Election. You may take this guide into the voting booth with you.

Please refer to your blue Certificate of Voter Registration card for ballot entitlement. Below the fold line you will see a list of the units of government for which you are entitled to vote. Use the list as a guide to locate the ballot pages in this publication containing candidates and any public questions which are applicable to you. Units of government common to all Lake County voters are U.S. President, U.S. Senate, state-wide and county-wide offices. These are not listed on your blue card due to space limitations. If your blue card is not readily available, please call us at 360-6628 for assistance. Please note, if you moved to Lake County or changed your name more than 30 days before the election and did not register here, you will not be able to vote on March 21st.

Your precinct number and polling location are also listed on the blue card. Our web site at www.co.lake.il.us/entyclk includes pictures of each polling place, driving directions and a map from your home. Click on Election Services and select "Where do I vote?" When a polling facility declines to continue as a voting site, we always send new blue cards with updated information. Please take the time to verify your polling place in this guide and determine that the blue card you carry is current. All polling locations are listed by township in precinct number order and are accessible for the disabled. Any voting locations which changed within the last two elections are listed in bold type.

All of us in the County Clerk's office are dedicated to providing you the best possible service. Please do not hesitate to call us at 360-6628, or use our TTY/TDD service at 625-7220, if you have questions or need clarification about the voting process on election day.

Very truly yours,

Lake County Clerk

Elect^{to} Vote

Tuesday, March 21st Primary

Some things you should know about voting before going to the polls...

- ♦ In a primary, you choose either a Democratic, Republican or Nonpartisan ballot. Nonpartisan ballots contain only public questions (no people), with the exception of The City of Lake Forest. Lake Forest voters will elect municipal officers, and candidates will be listed on all ballots (Democratic, Republican and Nonpartisan).
- ♦ Disabled voters may request curbside voting at their polling place on election day by calling 360-5912 prior to election day.
- ♦ Election judges are required by law to place your ballot in the ballot box.
- ♦ If you mark your ballot incorrectly or change your mind about your ballot choices, you may request a new ballot before your ballot is deposited in the ballot box. No ballot may be retrieved from the ballot box.

Casting a Write-In Vote

Write-in votes are counted only for candidates who have filed a Declaration Of Intent To Be A Write-In Candidate with the County Clerk by 5:00 p.m., Tuesday, March 14, 2000.

- NAME OF CANDIDATE
- TERM OF OFFICE if more than one term is listed for the same office
- Draw a SQUARE to the left of the candidate's name and mark an "X" inside the square.
